Miami, Florida Jun 21, 2025 (Issuewire.com) - Former UFC Fighter Launches GardeSafe — A Personal Protection Service Built for Women's Safety

In a city known for nightlife and events, a former UFC fighter is stepping into a new kind of fight — protecting women. Phillip Hawes, an undefeated boxer and former collegiate wrestler for Iowa State, has launched GardeSafe, a personal protection service designed to keep women safe at bachelorette parties, nightlife events, and while traveling solo.

“Women shouldn’t have to choose between having fun and feeling safe,” says Hawes. “GardeSafe was built to be the person they can count on before something goes wrong — not after.”

GardeSafe offers discreet, unarmed safety professionals who act as personal protection companions — available for events, nightlife, and travel. With a sleek, professional presence, Garde agents provide support without drawing attention — protection that blends in, not stands out.

Why It Matters:

- 81% of women report experiencing public sexual harassment (Stop Street Harassment Report).
- Miami is one of the top U.S. destinations for bachelorette parties and solo travel — both high-risk situations for women.
- Most women have no clear service to call when they feel unsafe but don’t want to involve law enforcement.

GardeSafe is bridging that gap with a model focused on safety, confidence, and presence — blending private protection with a hospitality mindset.

What GardeSafe Offers:

- Unarmed, trained safety professionals for hire by the hour
- Discreet and non-intimidating appearance (no uniforms or weapons)
- Ideal for bachelorette parties, solo travelers, nightlife, or events
- Services available now in Miami, with plans to expand across Florida
