

Alexia R. Coleman Strengthens Emergency Nursing Care in Stow, Ohio

Nurse, Leader, Educator: A Trailblazing Journey of Service and Compassion Across Healthcare and the Military

New York City, New York Jul 4, 2025 (IssueWire.com) - With compassion in her heart and leadership in her stride, Alexia Coleman (Boling) of Barberton, Ohio, stands as a dynamic force at the intersection of healthcare, education, and military service. A seasoned Registered Nurse, decorated military medical leader, and rising nurse educator, Coleman exemplifies integrity, resilience, and service in every role she undertakes.

Currently pursuing a Master of Science in Nursing – Nurse Educator at American Military University, Coleman has already graduated Magna Cum Laude with her Bachelor of Science in Nursing (2023), after earning her Associate Degree in Nursing in 2019. Her dedication to lifelong learning is matched only by her devotion to patient care and professional mentorship.

In her prestigious role as Chief Case Manager for the Ohio Army National Guard, Coleman oversees medical case management operations for more than 17,000 Soldiers across federal and state missions. She develops and implements individualized care plans for service members navigating complex health challenges, ensuring their readiness, recovery, or transition with dignity and precision. Her leadership also includes mentoring junior officers and guiding teams through critical military healthcare protocols.

Coleman's passion for shaping the future of nursing is evident in her work as a Clinical Instructor at Cuyahoga Community College. There, she inspires nursing students with her emphasis on clinical excellence, safety, and compassionate care, building a legacy that will echo in every patient her students one day serve.

Her frontline expertise is rooted in over five years of dedicated service in the Emergency Department at Cleveland Clinic Akron General, where she triages patients of all ages, responds to trauma and mass casualty events, and contributes to enterprise-wide emergency preparedness efforts as part of the Hospital Emergency Response Team.

Beyond the bedside, Coleman has served nearly a decade as a Human Resource Specialist in the National Guard, managing personnel operations and public affairs, and championing drug prevention and readiness programs. She also held roles in correctional nursing and travel nursing, delivering high-acuity care in diverse, often underserved, environments.

"My mission has always been to serve—to advocate for my patients, guide future nurses, and uplift my fellow Soldiers," Coleman says. "Whether I'm in the emergency room, the classroom, or the field, I lead with purpose, courage, and compassion."

She holds an active RN license from the Ohio Board of Nursing and maintains certifications in Advanced Burn Life Support, Advanced Cardiovascular Life Support, Pediatric Advanced Life Support, and more. Her professional affiliations include the American Nurses Association, Ohio Nurses Association, Today's Nurse, and the National Society of Leadership and Success.

With a heart for healing and a drive to lead, Alexia Coleman (Boling) is not just advancing in her field; she's reshaping the future of healthcare and service in Ohio and beyond.
