

Dr. Lisa S. Singh-Rose Strengthens Healthcare Leadership and Nurse Advocacy in Broward County, FL

Seasoned nurse leader and executive brings strategic vision to elevate care, operations, and clinical practice

New York City, New York Jul 9, 2025 (IssueWire.com) - Dr. Lisa S. Singh-Rose represents the embodiment of dedication, compassion, and lifelong learning in the nursing profession. With more than two decades of diverse and progressive clinical, administrative, and educational experience, Dr. Singh-Rose has built a legacy rooted in servant leadership, cultural humility, and a profound commitment to patient-centered care.

The Broward County Health Network is proud to welcome Dr Lisa Singh-Rose, a dynamic nurse leader and healthcare executive committed to driving excellence in patient care and nursing practice across South Florida. Leveraging extensive experience in clinical leadership and operations, Lisa brings vision, collaboration, and strategic insight to support the Network's mission of delivering exceptional, patient-centered services.

Dr Singh-Rose holds a DNP, MSN, MBA, and has an active FNP license. She held senior leadership roles overseeing nursing units, hospital departments, and clinical program development. She also teaches as a professor at the university and Private colleges in Broward County. This is her way of sharing her knowledge and giving back to her community. Throughout her career, she has led initiatives in operational efficiency, workforce development, and quality improvement, improving patient safety, nurse satisfaction, and interdisciplinary collaboration across complex care environments.

At Broward Health Network, Dr Singh-Rose is known for her visionary leadership style, commitment to staff mentorship, and focus on data-driven results. She spearheads programs for nursing engagement, shared governance, and professional development. Her passion for evidence-based practice is reflected in her efforts to integrate clinical guidelines, simulation training, and performance metrics into frontline care.

In addition to improving clinical operations, Dr Singh-Rose serves as a bridge between nursing teams, executive leadership, and community stakeholders. She leads interdisciplinary committees dedicated to patient experience, clinical outcomes, and technology adoption. Through staff-led task forces and continual feedback systems, she ensures that nursing perspectives inform organizational strategy and innovation.

Personal Life and Hobbies

Dr. Sing-Rose finds balance through spiritual fellowship, liturgical dancing, and mentoring nursing students. She also enjoys exercise and yoga for mindfulness and clarity. She enjoys travel for both ministry and personal retreats, using these opportunities to refresh body, mind, and spirit.

Community Work and Global Impact

Dr. Singh-Rose is the founder of Pearls Elite International Ministries, Inc., a non-profit organization created to serve underserved communities both locally and abroad. The organization mentors young adults pursuing healthcare careers and supports women in life transition, offering spiritual mentorship, skill development, and job readiness programs focused on healthcare entry.

She also serves and volunteers under the leadership of Church Without Walls International Ministry. Through this ministry, she has been spiritually nurtured, trained, and mentored to be a steward and servant leader in her community. Currently, she has established a not-for-profit organization, Pearls-Elite International Ministries, where she travels locally and internationally to deliver medical and home care services and spiritual guidance. Her work integrates medical outreach, health education, and holistic health and wellness.

Looking ahead, Dr Sing-Rose plans to launch a nurse leadership academy, expand telehealth nursing models, and introduce community-focused care initiatives aimed at enhancing access and education. Her strategic leadership aligns with Broward Health Network's vision to foster a culture of excellence, empowerment, and compassionate care at every level.

Acknowledgements

Dr. Singh-Rose expresses deep gratitude to the many clinical leaders and mentors who have shaped her career and invested their time in her professional growth. She also extends heartfelt thanks to the healthcare professionals and educators who believed in her capacity to lead and transform care.

To her children, husband, and friends, she offers endless appreciation for their constant love, patience, and support through her years of rigorous study and professional service.

Above all, she gives honor and Glory to her Heavenly Father for blessing her with the gift of compassion and purpose. "It is through His grace that I continue to walk in my calling—to teach, to serve, and encourage others."
