

Florida Teak Expands Premium Hardwood Offerings with Real Teak, Cherry Wood, and Ipe Wood Lumber

Leading Florida-Based Lumber Supplier Now Provides a Wider Range of Exotic and Domestic Hardwood Solutions for Marine, Architectural, and Custom Woodworking Projects

West Palm Beach, Florida Jul 7, 2025 (Issuewire.com) - Florida Teak, a top-tier supplier of high-quality exotic and domestic hardwoods, announces the expansion of its product offerings to include Real Teak, Cherry Wood (Florida), and Ipe Wood Lumber (Florida). Known for its dedication to sourcing superior wood for marine and architectural use, Florida Teak is reinforcing its position as a go-to destination for luxury builders, boatmakers, and woodworking professionals throughout Florida and beyond.

As demand continues to grow for durable and aesthetically striking hardwoods in high-end construction and design, Florida Teak's enhanced product lineup answers the call with premium wood selections ideal for both interior and exterior use.

A Legacy of Excellence in Real Teak

At the heart of Florida Teak's product range remains Real Teak, also known as Burmese Teak (Tectona grandis). Sourced ethically from mature trees and recognized globally for its golden-brown hue, tight grain, and exceptional resistance to moisture and decay, real teak remains the material of choice for marine decking, luxury yacht interiors, outdoor furniture, and architectural details.

Florida Teak supplies only First European Quality (FEQ) Burmese Teak, ensuring customers receive the finest product available on the market. Each board is hand-selected for color consistency, grain uniformity, and durability, making it ideal for demanding environments like seafaring vessels or coastal residences.

"Our teak isn't plantation-grown or commercial grade—it's the real deal," said a Florida Teak spokesperson. "We're proud to be one of the few suppliers in Florida offering genuine FEQ Burmese teak, milled to precision and ready for high-end applications."

Introducing Cherry Wood: A Florida Favorite for Warmth and Elegance

Expanding into domestic hardwoods, Florida Teak now offers Cherry Wood in Florida, prized for its rich reddish tones, smooth texture, and classic American aesthetic. A long-standing favorite in fine furniture, cabinetry, millwork, and flooring, cherry wood offers strength and beauty that improve with age.

Craftsmen and designers throughout Florida are increasingly turning to cherry wood for residential and commercial interiors that require elegance, character, and natural warmth. The wood darkens over time to a lustrous patina, creating spaces that feel both timeless and refined.

"Our Florida clients have asked for more premium domestic hardwoods, and cherry wood was a natural addition," the spokesperson added. "It's incredibly workable, beautiful, and perfect for projects that demand a polished, traditional look."

Ipe Wood Lumber: Florida's Ultimate Outdoor Hardwood

Recognizing the growing popularity of ultra-durable decking materials, Florida Teak has also introduced Ipe Wood Lumber in Florida—a tropical hardwood known for its unparalleled toughness, resistance to insects and rot, and deep brown coloring.

Sometimes called "Brazilian Walnut," Ipe is ideal for:

- Exterior decking and boardwalks
- Outdoor furniture and pergolas
- Fencing and siding

- High-traffic outdoor commercial projects

Ipe wood is up to eight times harder than red oak and can last 40+ years without treatment, making it a top-tier choice for Florida's humid, sun-soaked climate. Florida Teak's Ipe lumber is responsibly harvested and offered in a wide variety of dimensions to suit both commercial and residential construction.

"Whether it's an oceanside boardwalk, a luxury pool deck, or a designer patio, Ipe delivers durability that few materials can match," said the company representative. "It's a great complement to our existing teak inventory."

Serving Florida's Marine, Architectural, and Custom Wood Markets

With its headquarters in Florida and an ever-growing network of clients throughout the state, Florida Teak has earned a reputation for excellence in hardwood supply and customer service. The company serves a wide range of industries, including:

- Boat and yacht builders
- Custom homebuilders and architects
- Cabinet makers and millworkers
- Furniture designers and craftsmen

All hardwoods are available for custom milling to meet exact specifications, and Florida Teak offers nationwide shipping, making it easy for clients across the U.S. to access the company's exceptional inventory.

Commitment to Sustainability and Quality

In an industry where sustainability matters more than ever, Florida Teak is committed to ethical sourcing practices. All of the company's hardwoods—including real teak, cherry wood, and Ipe—are harvested from legal and responsibly managed forests, meeting or exceeding international environmental standards.

"Our customers care about where their wood comes from, and so do we," the spokesperson emphasized. "From Burma to Brazil to the heart of Florida, we ensure that every piece of lumber we sell is traceable, sustainable, and of the highest quality."

Why Choose Florida Teak?

As builders, designers, and craftsmen search for premium hardwoods that combine performance with visual appeal, Florida Teak continues to lead the way in Florida and beyond.

Key advantages include:

- FEQ Real Teak – Unmatched in beauty and marine performance

- Cherry Wood (Florida) – A domestic classic for interiors
