

Introducing Sahara CyberStars latest release 'I Wanna Go Home'

Dave Long and Trish Long have remastered this original full band soul rock track that features passionate vocals, rhythmic electric guitar, brass section and nostalgic alto sax solo. This track is described as a 'song with meaning'

Stawell, Victoria Jul 11, 2025 (Issuewire.com) - A quick introduction to the band 'Sahara CyberStars' that is made up of the award winning singer/songwriters Dave Long and Trish Long who met on the vibrant Dublin music scene in their homeland Ireland in the mid eighties. They performed in many of the renowned music venues there until the economic downturn saw them migrating to Australia. There they continued their songwriting and performing successfully appearing on all the major TV networks, live to air on radio as well as festival appearances and several concert tours.

Trish Long and Dave Long's music is all original and has been described as 'eclectic' weaving between rock, soul, jazz, R&B and Celtic. But don't be fooled by this duo - they embraced the power of the synth early in the piece and they pride themselves on the full band sound they have created which has received many compliments. They were also music pioneers in the nineties becoming the first Australian act to go to No.1 on the First Internet Music charts based in New York which led to an interview on the ABC evening news Australia. They followed this with another one of their songs going to No. 1 and from there they started to take their concert on the road around eastern and southern Australia from cities to the outback.

Sahara CyberStars have released six albums and eight singles to date. Currently they are in their studio and between releasing new songs they have found time to re-master a title called 'I Wanna Go Home' which they released on July 10th, 2025. Looking at the state of the world they felt this was the time for this song. 'I Wanna Go Home' is a soul rock ballad that is a plea to people who haven't had to leave their homeland through circumstances beyond their control, to understand that the names 'refugees' and 'migrants' refer to real people who are struggling to find a 'home' in a hostile world. This track features Dave Long on lead vocals and electric guitar and Trish Long on vocals and alto sax.

Some highlights of Sahara CyberStars career include: Two No. 1 hits in the First Internet Charts based in New York USA, ABC TV Evening News nationwide. Video of live concert 'Sahara Live @ The Malthouse Theatre' most requested concert on the CelticTV website New York, Composed music for ABC Australian Story documentary 'Track Winding Back' that won the United Nations Media Award, Win on New Faces TV 9

What the critics have said about Sahara CyberStars

"We continue talking about high-level references to rock ballads from the 70s and 80s, and comparing them to Sahara CyberStars is synonymous with nostalgia and musical delight. This band is for those nostalgic fans of Toto, Michael Bolton and Roxette. There are also touches of southern rock, so there is no chance of going wrong when adding Sahara CyberStars to your playlist." HBN (Brazil)

"Unafraid to embrace, explore and celebrate life in its totality, Sahara CybersStars use evocative melodies to draw out life's grit, enjoy its glory, and maybe resonate with audiences while they're at it. Based in Australia, Dave and Trish Long are no newbies to the music industry with a history of over 30 years to their sonic journey, and with each song, chord and lyric, they continue to turn heads of audiences across the globe."

The Other Side (Germany)

"Sahara CyberStars, the dynamic duo of Trish and Dave, have always had a unique ability to blend personal reflection with universal themes." Allen Peterson Reviews (UK)

"The Irish-Australian duo Trish and Dave Long have a gift for masterfully blending electronic beats with their heartfelt songwriting. They create an uplifting and thought-provoking sonic landscape, delving into the intricate tapestry of human emotions." Honk Magazine (USA)

"For singer guitarist Dave Long and singer-saxophonist-flautist Trish, their inspirational music, a tidy blend of folk, rock and soul is a celebration of hope, dreams and love..." The Age (Melbourne)

“With their unique blend of musical styles and powerful storytelling, Sahara CyberStars continue to be a beacon of thoughtful and original music in today’s landscape.” Ariyel’s Blog (USA)

“Rock celebrates the arrival of this pair of artists who write lyrics with their blood and express their words with their soul. When we came across this duo, we saw something special in them. It’s clear they’re trying to leave an idea that transcends. They’re not looking to leave a catchy verse that’s forgotten, but rather they strive to leave us with a subtle philosophy in simple verses, something like a musical mantra.” Zona Emergente (Mexico)

“With profoundly rich artistry behind them, the duo aims to embrace authenticity with their sound, reflecting upon thought-provoking emotions with pure delight.” Testing Melodies (India)

“A talented Australian group that I don’t think should be missed! Discover Sahara CyberStars.” Berlin On Air (Germany)

“Without further ado, enjoy the present moment with the duo CyberStars, who take you on a musical journey through their eclectic rock universe.” Info Music Review(France)
