

John C. Maino, II, MD: A Legacy of Excellence in Emergency Medicine and Event Safety

Retired Emergency Medicine Specialist Celebrated for Pioneering Contributions to Mass Gathering Medicine

New York City, New York Jul 30, 2025 (Issuewire.com) - Dr. John C. Maino, II, MD, a retired emergency medicine specialist with an impressive 45-year career, continues to influence the field of emergency medicine, particularly in the context of large-scale spectator events. Since 2000, he has held the esteemed position of Medical Director for events at Michigan International Speedway, where he has been instrumental in developing protocols that enhance emergency medical services during high-attendance events. His innovative approaches have earned him the affectionate title of "grandfather of event medicine."

A graduate of Wayne State University, Dr. Maino completed his internship in general surgery and a residency in internal medicine at Michigan State University, laying a strong foundation for a distinguished career dedicated to patient care and public safety. His extensive experience includes a successful tenure as a full-time Emergency Physician at Independent Emergency Physicians, PC, serving the Henry Ford Allegiance Health Emergency Department.

Throughout his career, Dr. Maino has championed the integration of emergency medicine into event planning, emphasizing the need for robust medical support systems that can effectively respond to emergencies while alleviating pressure on local emergency departments. His dedication to this cause is further exemplified by his authorship of a chapter on mass gathering medicine for Cambridge University Press, where he shares his expertise with a global audience.

In addition to his work in event medicine, Dr. Maino serves as the Chief Medical Examiner for Jackson County, Michigan, where he has made significant contributions to the standardization of death investigations in collaboration with law enforcement and prosecutors. His efforts have fostered a greater understanding of the critical role medical examiners play in the legal system.

Dr. Maino is an active member of several professional organizations, including the Michigan College of Emergency Physicians, American College of Emergency Physicians, Michigan Association of Medical Examiners, American Medical Association, and the American Society of Emergency Physicians. His commitment to ongoing education and professional development reflects his enduring passion for emergency medicine.

As he moves into retirement, Dr. Maino's legacy will undoubtedly inspire future generations of emergency medicine professionals and event safety coordinators. His contributions have left an indelible mark on the field, ensuring that public safety remains a top priority at large gatherings.
