personalized treatment plans that focus on the individual needs of his patients, ensuring they receive the best possible care tailored to their unique circumstances.

Dr. Lynes provides his neurosurgical expertise at various locations, including Medstar Georgetown University Hospital in Washington, DC, CalvertHealth Medical Center in Prince Frederick, MD, and Sentara Neurosurgery Specialists in Lake Ridge, VA. His approach is deeply rooted in empathy and understanding, driven by his personal experiences with neuro-oncology patients and their families. “My connection to what I do is personal, and it informs the way I work with patients, how I feel about their outcomes, and what their experience is like under my care,” Dr. Lynes shared.

As the first member of his family to enter the medical field, Dr. Lynes chose to specialize in neurosurgical oncology due to the emotional and psychological toll that brain tumors and related conditions take on patients and their loved ones. “I’m invested in my patients and how they are doing long after I’ve treated them,” he added, emphasizing that his focus is not solely on performing surgery but on providing comprehensive care and support.

Dr. Lynes earned his Medical Degree from Rosalind Franklin University of Medicine and Science, Chicago Medical School in 2014, followed by an internship and residency at MedStar Georgetown University Hospital in 2015 and 2021, respectively.
