

Malaysia's Aerospace Breakthroughs at Paris Airshow 2025 at the Paris Airshow 2025

Paris, France Jul 23, 2025 (Issuewire.com) - Malaysia secured €230 million or RM1.16 billion in potential aerospace-related sales at the 55th International Paris Airshow (IPAS 2025), strengthening its position as an emerging aerospace partner in Europe and beyond. Represented by 11 high-tech companies, Malaysia showcased a range of capabilities spanning MRO (maintenance, repair and overhaul), composite aerostructures, aviation training, systems integration, and hydrogen-powered technologies.

The Malaysia Pavilion – the only ASEAN national presence at the event – was led by Malaysia’s Trade Promotion Agency, Malaysia External Trade Development Corporation (MATRADE) in partnership with the National Aerospace Industry Corporation Malaysia (NAICO), with support from multiple Malaysian agencies.

MATRADE also debuted the Malaysia Aerospace Day 2025 during the airshow – a dedicated networking platform to facilitate engagement with global aerospace clusters and innovation ecosystems.

“Malaysia is stepping forward as a competitive and collaborative partner in the global aerospace industry,” said Trade Commissioner of Malaysia based at MATRADE Paris, Madame Zuhaila Sedek. “With production in the aerospace industry ramping up, now is the best time for European businesses to partner with our Malaysian ecosystem players. Our capabilities range from advanced manufacturing to New Space and we are keen to build high-value partnerships with European players,” she added.

Aerospace has been identified as a national growth priority under Malaysia’s New Industrial Master Plan 2023 and the Malaysia Aerospace Industry Blueprint 2030, which together aim to transform the country into a regional aerospace hub by strengthening its supply chain, talent development, and industrial innovation. Malaysia’s aerospace exports have remained strong, reaching €720 million or RM3.63 billion in the first five months of 2025, with Europe as a key market.

Malaysia is known for its certified supplier ecosystem, strategic location, and investor-friendly policies. As one of Southeast Asia’s economic powerhouses, Malaysia is considered an ideal partner for European aerospace companies due to its reliability, cost-competitiveness and industry readiness to serve the global markets.
