Buford, Georgia Jul 25, 2025 (Issuewire.com) - This is big news for car enthusiasts! Vintage Broncos, the company admired for building the world's first fully modernized classic automobile, is now Vintage Modern—marking an exciting new chapter in automotive excellence. The rebranding is a clear shift and evolution of the company, honoring tradition while expanding into new horizons. Vintage Modern steps beyond Broncos while staying true to their passion for design combined with contemporary reliability.

“Our mission has always been celebrating classic automotive beauty while making these vehicles practical, safe, and fun for today's driver,” said Chau Nguyen, founder and CEO of Vintage Modern. “Everyone in our industry is attempting to make classic cars more modern. We're taking modern cars and making them look classic.”

Vintage Broncos has long delighted enthusiasts by combining vintage designs with modern safety, luxury, and performance—producing cars that feel genuinely timeless and reliably modern. With meticulous attention to detail and unwavering excellence, Vintage's creations have earned a cult-like following among both car enthusiasts and non-car people—including high-profile clients such as Jennifer Lopez, Mark Wahlberg, LeBron James, and Kevin Hart.

Now, as Vintage Modern, the company expands their trade by continuing to handcraft each classic car with the modern functionalities and technological conveniences you'd expect for this day in age. This means every car created is one-of-one, crafted on a modern car chassis with safety features including six airbags, crumple zones, anti-lock brakes, traction control, LATCH seat belts, and much more. This transition is more than just a name change, but instead, redefining what it means to love and own a classic car in the modern world.

“By combining vintage car design with modern car safety, reliability, and luxury, you're truly getting the best of both worlds,” added Nguyen. “The end result is a beautiful vehicle that is absolutely timeless, has all the vintage charm but none of the vintage car problems, and is something you can drive every day. You get to have something that is exclusive, rare, and like nothing else on the road.”

To celebrate this milestone, Vintage Modern is revealing a completely redesigned online presence. For more information on the company's approach, available models, and how to experience what's coming
