

Wonder Foods Launches with High-Performance Leadership and Independently Tested Natural Supplements

Brisbane, Queensland Jul 30, 2025 (Issuewire.com) - Wonder Foods, one of Australia's fastest-growing natural health brands, has launched with a bold commitment to performance, purity, and transparency.

Now stocked in over 550 health food stores and pharmacies across the country, Wonder Foods is setting a new benchmark for clean, evidence-based supplementation.

Since initiating the brand in May 2023, Propel Health Pty Ltd, led by Grant Jenkins, has developed Wonder Foods with a results-driven approach that blends elite sport, science, and consumer trust.

Grant Jenkins, a renowned high-performance coach, spent 25 years preparing athletes in four different sports for World Championships and coaching at all four tennis Grand Slams. His former athletes include tennis stars Ash Barty and Nick Kyrgios. He now brings that same high-performance mindset to the health and wellness space, ensuring every Wonder Foods product meets elite standards of quality and effectiveness.

Wonder Foods products are independently tested for glyphosate, heavy metals, harmful bacteria, microbial contamination, and other common contaminants. This commitment to rigorous testing—rarely seen in the industry—underscores the company’s promise of safety, purity, and transparency.

“We don’t release anything unless it’s clean, effective, and backed by evidence,” says Jenkins. “Our customers care about what goes into their bodies—and so do we.”

He continues, “We have two ways of making sure our customers get what they need. The first is independent scientific testing by accredited laboratories. The second is a personal standard: would we give this to our kids? There have been products that passed the first test but failed the second—and if we wouldn’t give it to our kids, we won’t sell it.”

With a growing range of natural, functional supplements—including gut health heroes like PHGG and Inulin, performance products like Creatine, and everyday staples like Tangy Vitamin C, Cranberry Protect, and Liquid Oxygen—Wonder Foods is proving that wellness can be simple, clean, and powerful.
