Mumbai, Maharashtra Aug 6, 2025 (Issuewire.com) - "From Government Service to Literary Voice for Social Justice and Women's Resilience": The Writings of Renuka K.P.

Kerala Author Renuka K.P., based in Ernakulam, has earned significant recognition for her insightful exploration of social and cultural dynamics within contemporary literature. Inspired by her keen observations of human nature and societal hypocrisies following her retirement from Kerala government service, she began her writing journey during the stressful period of the global pandemic.

Utilizing digital platforms like Pratilipi, she shared her thoughtful observations through engaging narratives. Renuka's narratives skillfully portray the power structures that shape family, workplace, and community relationships, effectively exposing the social norms that perpetuate injustice. Rooted in Kerala's rich cultural heritage, her fiction intricately weaves in local customs and traditions, transporting readers to authentic and evocative stories that reflect the profound influence of this cultural backdrop on her literary voice.

Rhodesia is the author of Soulful, 100 Poems on Love, Faith, and Life.

Since then she has published 3 other poetry anthologies, "Words of Wisdom," "A New Beginning," and "Three Loves"; an autobiography entitled "Houses"; a comic book entitled "The Age of Aquarius"; and a medical workbook on lifestyle medicine, "A Long and Lasting Life." She has also been a regular contributor to countless anthologies compiled by Ukiyoto Publishing, and her books have been translated into 10 other languages, including Italian, Spanish, French, Korean, Greek, Hebrew, Japanese, Chinese, Russian and Arabic.
