Despite the importance of routine care, only around 65% of adults in the U.S. had a dental exam or cleaning last year. Rauch Family Dentistry emphasizes preventive care as vital—not just for oral health, but for overall wellness, given the strong links between periodontal conditions and systemic diseases like heart disease and diabetes.

Around 68.5 million U.S. adults lack dental insurance, with numbers projected to rise, indicating a widening gap in access to care.
