These concentrates play a vital role in dialysis treatment by ensuring that the blood is properly filtered, and harmful substances are removed efficiently. Shubham Corporation offers a wide range of dialysis concentrates, including bicarbonate cartridges, which serve to regulate the blood's acid-base balance during dialysis. Our Soxa Formulations and Research Pvt Ltd manufactures these concentrates with the latest technologies, adhering to global standards of quality.

The A.V. fistula needle is used in creating a reliable access point for dialysis in patients with end-stage renal disease (ESRD). These needles are designed to be easy to insert, comfortable for the patient, and durable for repeated use. As part of our hemodialysis product line, Shubham Corporation provides A.V. fistula needles that meet the highest standards of quality and performance.
