

Turkish-American Filmmaker Sean GK and Famed Director and Producer Savaş Sancak Running Oscar 2026

Los Angeles, California Aug 4, 2025 (IssueWire.com) - Turkish-American Filmmaker Sean GK and Famed Director and Producer Savaş Sancak Join Forces for TV and Oscar-Potential Film Project

From a 300-episode Turkish TV drama to an Oscar-targeted feature film, the powerful new duo is making waves from Istanbul to Hollywood.

Turkish-American director and producer Sean GK is teaming up with legendary Turkish filmmaker Savaş Sancak for not one, but two major productions. The first is a 300-episode television series titled Kayıp Yıllar (The Lost Years), commissioned by Turkey's national broadcaster Kanal 7. The two will co-direct and co-produce the entire series, merging their unique styles in what is expected to be one of the most ambitious Turkish TV projects to date.

But the collaboration doesn't stop there.

Their second project, "Language of Shadows," a philosophical thriller written by Sean GK himself, has already been hailed by insiders as a "clear Oscar potential project." The film will also be co-directed by Sean GK and Savaş Sancak and is being prepped for international release.

> "We've turned down nearly 20 offers from major American studios," said Sean GK. "Everyone wants to get involved in this film. But we are not selling this project—we're making it ourselves."

> "My friend Savaş and I believe in this film. If the whole industry is chasing it, that means they see what we see. We're going to make it in Hollywood — and we're aiming straight for the Oscars," he added.

According to sources close to the production, the duo is currently in talks with several world-renowned actors for leading roles in Language of Shadows. Filming is expected to take place in both Turkey and the United States.
