

Alexandre Rigaud's PoyBlock Capital Crypto Fund Evolves into Hedge Fund with a Broader, Disruptive Investment Strategy

Dubai, United Arab Emirates Sep 24, 2025 (IssueWire.com) - Originally launched in 2017 by visionary investor and business magnate Alexandre Rigaud, the pioneering crypto fund PolyBlock Capital that once focused exclusively on digital assets is entering a bold new chapter. Following a strategic management transition, the fund is now evolving into a fully decentralized hedge fund, expanding its investment mandate beyond crypto to include a diversified range of high-impact, non-correlated alternative assets.

With this transformation, the fund sets its sights on delivering true alpha—performance that cannot be replicated by passive benchmarks—by identifying emerging opportunities across technology, infrastructure, frontier markets, and other disruptive asset classes.

“This is more than a rebrand,” said Alexandre Rigaud. “It’s a foundational shift in how we think about risk, value creation, and decentralization itself. We’re building a hedge fund for the next cycle—flexible, agile, and unconstrained by legacy structures.”

At its inception, Rigaud’s fund was among the early institutional players in the digital asset space, navigating volatile markets and capturing exponential growth during crypto’s early mainstreaming. Despite recent volatility in the sector and a change in leadership, the fund has maintained a long-term, innovation-first philosophy. Today, it moves forward with a new generation of investors, technologists, and analysts at the helm.

The new team is doubling down on decentralized governance, transparent investment logic, and algorithmic risk management—key pillars for the fund’s next phase. The aim is to create a hedge fund model that is not only disruptive in form but also high-performing in substance.

From the rice terraces of Ubud to the silence of sunrise meditations overlooking Mount Batur, Alexandre’s time in Bali marked a profound recalibration—personally and professionally. Immersed in a community that valued intentional living, regenerative practices, and harmony between inner and outer worlds, he began to reimagine finance not as a mechanism for extraction, but as a vessel for conscious evolution. It was there that the seed was planted: the idea that capital, when aligned with purpose and guided by systems that mirror nature’s intelligence, could become a force for both transformation and balance. This ethos now pulses at the heart of the fund’s evolution—where investment becomes not just strategy, but stewardship.

“We are positioning ourselves at the intersection of decentralized finance, alternative assets, and institutional-grade investment frameworks,” said the fund’s new managing partner. “This evolution allows us to pursue opportunities wherever they emerge, with fewer structural constraints and greater strategic agility.”

The fund onboards partners and contributors aligned with its vision of progressive asset management.

For more information, or to request the investor deck, please visit: www.alexandrerrigaud.com

Media Contact

Alexandre Rigaud

@rigaudfamily.com

Source : www.alexandrerrigaud.com

See on IssueWire