In a groundbreaking women-led practice, Dr. Raimondi is redefining modern podiatric care with her patient-centered approach and advanced surgical techniques.

Serving as the lead surgeon for elective procedures at the practice, Dr. Raimondi has quickly garnered a reputation for her focus on minimally invasive bunion surgery. This specialization began during her residency, where she was mentored by a highly regarded surgeon experienced in the technique. “Minimally invasive surgery allows for quicker recovery times and less postoperative pain, which is what patients are looking for today,” Dr. Raimondi explains. Her dedication to providing compassionate, personalized treatment is evident in every aspect of her work, setting a new standard in the field.

A graduate of St. Joseph’s University, New York, and the prestigious New York College of Podiatric Medicine, Dr. Raimondi completed a rigorous residency in Podiatric Medicine and Surgery with Reconstructive Rearfoot and Ankle Surgery (PMSR-RRA) at Good Samaritan University Hospital. As chief resident, she demonstrated outstanding leadership and clinical skills, earning her board qualification from the American Board of Foot and Ankle Surgery (ABFAS). Dr. Raimondi is also an active member of the American Podiatric Medical Association (APMA), where she engages in ongoing education and advocacy for the profession.

Dr. Raimondi’s commitment extends beyond her surgical expertise; she is dedicated to advancing the field of podiatric surgery while nurturing her patients with both knowledge and empathy. “I believe in treating the whole person, not just the condition,” she states. Her approach ensures that patients feel supported and informed throughout their treatment journey.

In addition to her medical career, Dr. Raimondi is an avid sports enthusiast, embodying the same focus and discipline she applies in the operating room in her personal pursuits. This passion for sports not only enriches her life but also enhances her understanding of the physical challenges faced by her patients.

Foot and Ankle Care of Long Island is proud to have Dr. Cheyenne Raimondi as part of their team, bringing innovation, compassion, and expertise to the community of Smithtown and beyond.
