Born from the Global Award Winning Book Ding Dong Ditch: Shadows of the Big East—now boasting 5-star reviews on Amazon—this story redefines the mystery/crime thriller lane with old-school grit and modern edge. Book on Amazon.

"This is a detective mystery that turns a prank into a full-blown war—where an old-school detective meets the stealth and wit of a military mind," said Captain Troy Z. Frost, a current firefighter now stepping into the role of Detective Charlie Dawson.

"This is not just an independent release," said NOZ, author and director. "It's gritty dialogue fused with sharp CGI—proof that independent film can punch above its weight."

"We had youth working in front of the camera and behind it—changing their lives in real time," said Chaz Carmon, executive producer, teacher, and community leader. "It's powerful to see first responders and a teacher like me come together to make a real impact."
