

Kellie M. DeCalogero, RN, MSN, AG-ACNP: Advocate for Patient Care and Nursing Education

Adult-Gerontology Acute Care Nurse Practitioner and Instructor Dedicated to Patient-Centered Care and Preparing the Next Generation of Nurses

Lebanon, New Hampshire Sep 12, 2025 (Issuewire.com) - Lebanon, New Hampshire – Kellie M. DeCalogero, RN, MSN, AG-ACNP, is making significant strides in patient care as an Adult-Gerontology Acute Care Nurse Practitioner within the Department of General Surgery at Dartmouth Hitchcock Medical Center. Joining the team in 2020, Kellie has consistently demonstrated her commitment to listening to and advocating for her patients' needs.

"I promise my patients that I will listen and advocate for their needs to the best of my ability," Kellie emphasizes. "I provide the highest level of care that I can, from admission to discharge. My goal is to help my patients return to their best possible quality of life." With a reputation as a strong communicator, Kellie ensures that nurses, providers, and patients are all informed and engaged throughout the care process.

Kellie began her nursing journey with an Internship in Nursing at Southern New Hampshire Medical Center in 2007, followed by earning her Master of Science in Nursing Degree from Rivier University School of Nursing in 2013. In addition to her role at Dartmouth Hitchcock Medical Center, she serves as an Instructor in Surgery at the Geisel School of Medicine at Dartmouth College in Hanover, further contributing to the education of future healthcare providers.

Kellie M. DeCalogero's passion for helping patients achieve their health goals continues to inspire both her colleagues and the patients she serves every day.
