

LogiChannel Launches Advanced ServiceNow Users Email List Designed to Power AI-Driven Personalization in B2B Campaigns

Reston, Virginia Sep 16, 2025 (Issuewire.com) - LogiChannel, a premium provider of B2B data services, has launched an enhanced version of its ServiceNow Users Email List, a high curated set of data to enable businesses to drive their AI-based personalization, tackle problems, showcase return-on-investment, and design future work for B2B campaigns.

This new version is designed with insight into the essential needs of marketers for data accuracy, a grant scheme, deeper segmentation, and next-level personalization.

Addressing the Increasing Demand for AI-Driven Personalization:

With a rapidly changing and competitive marketplace, personalization is no longer a concepts, it's a requirement. With limitless potential for AI and automation to operate in the capacities of B2B marketing, marketers must have verified, high-quality customer data to make the most of personalizing the customer experience. LogiChannel's ServiceNow Users Email List is developed to deliver this need, and give marketers the ability to finely target professionals, decision-makers, and IT leaders using ServiceNow.

"When data is accurate, segmented, and current, AI can do wonders for personalization in marketing outreach and effectiveness," said a spokesperson at LogiChannel. "When businesses get an up-to-date ServiceNow Users Email List, they are set to start their data-driven, AI-driven campaigns and produce results."

What is Unique about the ServiceNow Users Email List?

LogiChannel has built this mailing database with 99.99% accuracy, compliance, and segmentation, with a strong emphasis on accuracy. A generic list is not able to achieve this. The newly updated ServiceNow Users Email List offers up-to-date, multi-dimensional fields that allow marketers to segment audiences based on:

- Company size (SMBs, mid-market, enterprises)
- Geography (global coverage across North America, Europe, APAC, etc.)
- Title and role (CIOs, IT directors, developers, consultants, and decision makers)
- Industry verticals, such as manufacturing, retail, technology, healthcare, and finance.
- Levels of technology adoption (adoption of cloud computing, integrations of AI, and preparedness for automation)

This level of granular segmentation allows organizations to apply their AI-powered campaigns with messaging that resonates with the person and organization.

Leveraging Data Accuracy for Driving B2B Campaigns Towards Success:

The ServiceNow community is expanding at a fast rate as organizations globally are depending on ServiceNow for IT service management, workflow automation, and enterprise operations. LogiChannel is making it easier for marketers by releasing the ServiceNow Users Email List, which will help marketers:

- Increase personalization with AI-generated insights
- Decrease sales cycle by engaging verified decision-makers
- Increased ROI by reducing wasteful spend through eliminating needless lead
- Increased engagement through hyper-targeted content that delivers what the prospect needs

Every record in the email listing was put through a lengthy verification process, with various combinations of AI validation and human processes, ensuring data accuracy of 95%+. The database fully adheres to regulations related to GDPR, CCPA, and CAN-SPAM compliance, which defends brands against compliance risk.

Empowering Marketers with AI-Powered Data:

AI-driven personalization is transforming how B2B enterprises will engage with their prospects. The ServiceNow Users Email List provided by LogiChannel will allow organizations to give AI solutions accurate data in order to create predictive models, recommend solutions, and personalize experiences at scale.

Marketers can make use of this information in order to:

- Train AI models to improve lead scoring
- Create personalized email sequences with just a click
- Predict buyer intent regardless of industry
- Optimize campaign performance using real-time data analytics

LogiChannel connects raw data to actionable intelligence enabling organizations to effectively connect to their audience and make decisions that are timely and relevant.
