

New Income Course Launches to Help People Create Predictable Income From The Stock Market

The Income Ladder Strategy Course offers a step-by-step framework to build reliable monthly income using bonds, dividends, and real estate

Seattle, Washington Sep 9, 2025 (Issuewire.com) - A new online course is changing how single-income professionals approach retirement planning by focusing on predictability instead of risky growth. The Income Ladder Strategy Course, created by Patrick Imperato and the team at Tala Partners, teaches people how to generate consistent income through a structured mix of bonds, dividend stocks, and real estate assets.

The course introduces a visual framework called the Income Ladder. Participants build personalized “wallets” to match essential, discretionary, and long-term expenses with specific income sources. The system offers a clear, hands-off approach that protects against inflation, stock market swings, and sequence-of-returns risk.

“This isn’t about chasing returns. It’s about structuring your investments to pay you back, month after month, for life,” said Patrick Imperato, Founder of the Hands-Off Income System.

Created for high-earning professionals approaching retirement or seeking financial independence, the course guides participants through calculating retirement needs, building a bond ladder, and integrating dividend assets and real estate syndications. Students gain access to worksheets, calculators, portfolio optimization tools, and a step-by-step implementation system.

The course is entirely self-paced and available through the Hands-Off Income Systems platform. It includes optional future add-ons like coaching and community access.
