New punk-inspired band from South England announces plans for upcoming singles and future releases

London, England Sep 25, 2025 (Issuewire.com) - British rock newcomers Rivera have officially launched their music career with the release of their debut single, “This One’s Gonna Be Different.” Drawing inspiration from punk and alternative legends like The Clash, The Jam, Sex Pistols, and Manic Street Preachers, the track delivers raw energy, fast guitars, and an unforgettable chorus.

This band was formed in the summer of 2023, Rivera is made up of four 16-year-old musicians from South England:

- Elliot Roden – Lead vocals, guitar, songwriting
- Oliver Collins – Guitar, backing vocals, songwriting
- Finn Martin – Bass, backing vocals
- Stephen Ford – Drums and percussion

Despite their age, Rivera has already shown serious drive and talent. Roden and Collins have written hundreds of original songs since forming the band, building a strong creative partnership that's quickly gaining attention.

"We're proud to finally share our first single with the world," says lead vocalist Elliot Roden. "This One's Gonna Be Different' really sets the tone for what we're about—real instruments, strong lyrics, and big energy."

The band's second single, "Gullible," is set for release later this year. Already loved by fans at live shows, it promises to continue Rivera's bold, guitar-driven sound. The group also plans to release an EP and eventually a full-length album in 2026.

Rivera's music is available now on all major platforms, including Spotify, YouTube, and Apple Music. Fans can follow the band on social media for updates, behind-the-scenes content, and live performance announcements.

With a fresh sound, strong influences, and big plans for the future, Rivera is quickly becoming one of the most exciting young bands in the UK rock scene.
