

A Historic Rift Between Christians in the United States, Biblical Researcher Finds a Place of Resolution for Millions

Dallas, Texas Nov 2, 2025 (Issuewire.com) - It is an extraordinary time, particularly for persons who consider themselves Christians in the United States. There is a major rift among them concerning the nation's leadership and the integral part millions of Christians play in what many view as inconsistent with historical faith principles. Dr. Steven DavidSon, Biblical Researcher, and leader of the Nation's largest virtual Church, Amazing Things The Church has been researching the topic for nearly fifty years. He has discovered profound reasons for the condition and why persons with great concern should be relieved.

"While there are others who have observed this from a historical perspective, being in ministry as long as I have, I became very aware of the potential for this great-rift more than four decades ago."

DavidSon understands why there is a great rift, and particularly those who decry that what they are witnessing is far removed from the historical faith. And how they view the condition as affecting the ability to grow the faith or accomplish the Great Commission (Matthew 28:18-19). DavidSon continues:

"An objective observation of these concerns with those so aligned with governing authorities is clearly at odds with the 'compassionate and benevolent' view of the Christ of the Bible. However, regardless of the issue, a rift is not new. There is history well beyond my time of this kind of variance between historical First-Century Christianity and how masses reject the historical faith for their own version of the faith. Whether it is the conditions that established “Protestantism” over five hundred years ago or the matter of slavery two hundred years ago. In fact, we could return to the First Century where Christian sects such as Judaizers and Gnosticism caused division.”

DavidSon shares what persons can do or think to help them through this experience the world is witnessing today.

“Historian, George Satayana said in part, ‘those who forget history are doomed to repeat it.’ The Bible records: ‘That which has been is that which will be, And that which has been done is that which will be.’ Ecclesiastes 1:9.

First, this condition is not new. What we’re witnessing has always been a test of the historical faith. More importantly, the historical faith warns of conditions where millions claiming the faith would be aligned with questionable governing authorities. Finally, many of the terms embraced dearly, such as Christian, Church, Israel elapses or expire. The historical faith recorded these facts and declared them thousands of years in advance. This circumstance will not in any way hurt or hinder the ultimate mission. Those who are concerned and those connected to governing authority can both stand resolute. This matter shall be resolved soon.” Dr DavidSon has a website devoted to his research: FCGLiterature.info
