

Caribbean Global Institute Successful Launch

Thank You!

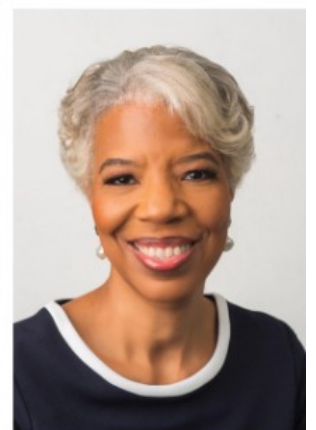

Caribbean Global Institute extends warmest gratitude for your support and engagement. This is a momentous occasion in our Caribbean history.

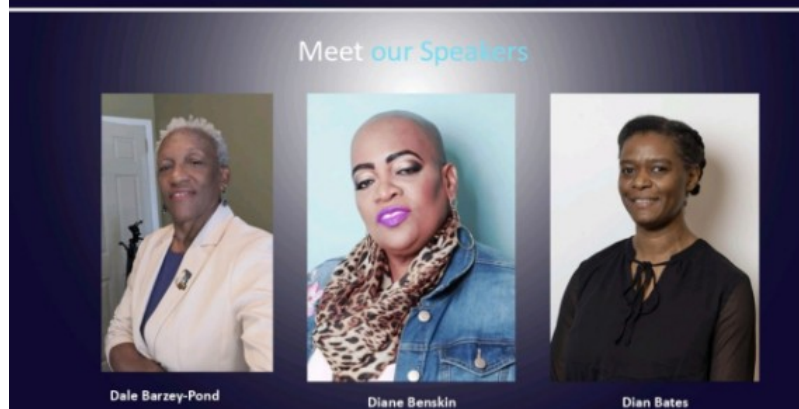

Dr(h.c.) Michaelene Holder-March

Dr John Bolodeoku

Celia Davidson-Francis

Meet our diverse and extraordinary Global Speakers! Visionaries, innovators, and leaders from across the world come together to share insights, inspire change, and celebrate excellence. Each speaker brings a unique perspective that transcends borders — shaping the global conversation on leadership, innovation, and unity.

London, England Oct 22, 2025 (Issuewire.com) - Caribbean Global Institute Launches with Resounding Success, Charting a New Course for Regional Development Through Collaboration and Innovation

The Caribbean Global Institute (CGI) was officially launched on 21.10.2025 in a landmark remote event that attracted significant global interest, with over 78 registrations and 45 participants joining online. The event brought together global thought leaders and regional pioneers, demonstrating the institute's commitment to forging a resilient future for the Caribbean through partnership, cutting-edge research, and strategic investment.

The event featured a compelling address by the Founder and CEO of CGI, Dr. (h.c.) Michaelene Holder-March, who articulated the institute's core purpose and strategic plan. Dr. (h.c.) Holder-March outlined a bold vision for CGI as a nexus for actionable solutions, emphasising its role in empowering the next generation of Caribbean leaders.

The agenda was enriched by a diverse roster of international and regional speakers, including Dr. John Bolodeoku and Celia Davidson-Francis of the CGI Select Committee. Additional distinguished speakers — Dr. Maria Del Santiago-Valentín, Dale Barzey-Pond, Dr. Kathy-Ann Sienko, Professor Rotimi Jaibesimi, Rene Baptiste CMG, and a poetic interlude called “Human” by Dian Bates—delivered impactful addresses that underscored the importance and far-reaching relevance of this initiative. Feedback from registrants was overwhelmingly supportive, echoing their willingness to champion this initiative through the dedication of time and the funding of related programs.

Quote from the Chair(s): “It was an honour to chair the launch of this vital institution,” stated Dr. John Bolodeoku and Celia Davidson-Francis in a joint comment. “The energy and intellectual firepower in the room confirmed the critical need for a platform like CGI to centralise and amplify the Caribbean’s voice on the global stage. The focus on tangible outcomes in research and mentorship is precisely what the region requires.”

Echoing this sentiment and issuing a clear call to action, Co-Chair Celia Davidson-Francis added, “The vision is clear. It is now incumbent upon all of us—across the diaspora and within the region—to be active in our support and engagement to bring this transformative initiative to its full potential.”

The discussions throughout the evening crystallised around CGI’s key strategic pillars: fostering collaboration, establishing robust mentorship networks, pioneering research in areas like genetics, and driving sustainability. A significant focus was placed on the development of business hubs and securing innovative funding models to ensure the long-term viability and impact of these initiatives.

Quote from the Sole Founder/CEO: “Our strategic plan is built on the foundation of purpose and partnership,” said Dr. (h.c.) Holder-March, Founder and CEO of the Caribbean Global Institute. “We are not merely an educational institution; we are an ecosystem builder. By connecting expertise from across the globe—from genetics to business development—we will create the hubs and funding pathways that turn groundbreaking research into sustainable economic growth for the Caribbean. The journey has just begun, and we invite the global community to join us.”

To support this critical next phase, CGI is calling for partners, members, and donors to help bring its strategic plan to life. Those interested in supporting this groundbreaking initiative can join the community and contribute directly via the official portal: <https://membermojo.co.uk/cgi>

The successful launch, marked by strong in-person and online attendance, has set the stage for CGI’s initial programs, which will include:

A Global Mentorship Exchange program.

Caribbean Global Youth Council

A dedicated research stream in genetics and sustainable agriculture.

The development of regional business hubs to support entrepreneurs.

Collaboration in obtaining historical data.

Executive education focused on sustainability, leadership, and innovation.

About the Caribbean Global Institute: The Caribbean Global Institute (CGI) is a premier, independent institution dedicated to advancing the sustainable development of the Caribbean region through world-class education, applied research, and strategic partnerships. CGI serves as a nexus for thought leadership, innovation, and collaborative action, empowering a new generation of leaders to tackle global challenges with local relevance.

Media Contact: contact@caribbeanglobalinstitute.com

Website: www.caribbeanglobalinstitute.com

To become a member or make a donation, please visit: <https://membermojo.co.uk/cgi>

Media Contact

Caribbean Global Institute

@caribbeanglobalinstitute.com

Source : Caribbean Global Awards

See on IssueWire