Specializing in Refractive Cataract Surgery and Facial Rejuvenation

Charlotte, North Carolina Oct 9, 2025 (IssueWire.com) - Dr. Anna Fakadej, MD, is a board-certified ophthalmologist at Carolina Eye Associates in Southern Pines, North Carolina. With over 30 years of experience, she specializes in refractive cataract surgery, including the correction of astigmatism and presbyopia using advanced surgical and implant technologies. Dr. Fakadej is also proficient in facial rejuvenation procedures, such as Botox and dermal fillers, and offers laser treatments for various skin concerns.

Dr. Fakadej earned her Bachelor of Science/Arts degree in chemistry and psychology from Duke University. She obtained her medical degree from West Virginia University School of Medicine, where she graduated with honors. She completed her internship at the University of Rochester and her ophthalmology residency at the University of Rochester Medical Center. Additionally, Dr. Fakadej attended the Physician CEO program at Northwestern University's Kellogg School of Business and earned her MBA from Duke University's Fuqua School of Business in 2018.

Certified by the American Board of Ophthalmology, Dr. Fakadej is a fellow of both the American Academy of Ophthalmology and the American College of Surgeons. She is actively involved in research related to intraocular lens technology and frequently lectures nationally and internationally to optometrists and ophthalmologists on cataract surgery advancements. She is sought after for opinions regarding ophthalmic research. She is consulted by both the public and private sectors for guidance on refractive cataract surgery.

Dr. Fakadej is a partner at Carolina Eye Associates. She has served as the Medical Director and President of the Eye Surgery Center of the Carolinas and Chairman of the Department of Ophthalmology at FirstHealth of the Carolinas. She is the Medical Director and Program Director for the Ophthalmic Medical Assistance Program at Sandhills Community College. She has served as an assistant professor at Campbell University's Jerry M. Wallace School of Osteopathic Medicine.

Beyond her professional achievements, Dr. Fakadej is committed to community service. She volunteers for various organizations, including K-9 Solutions, which trains service dogs for veterans with PTSD, and MIRA USA, which provides guide dogs for visually impaired youth. She has served on the board of Friend to Friend, a nonprofit supporting victims of sexual trauma and human trafficking, and is the President of Compass Rising, a local nonprofit offering crisis assistance. Currently, she is on the Medical Staff and Medical Board of the Southern Eye Clinic of Sierra Leone in West Africa.

Dr. Fakadej's dedication to both her patients and community reflects her holistic approach to healthcare, combining advanced medical and surgical expertise with a compassionate commitment to service.
