Tips for Buying Used Snowboards

When purchasing a used snowboard, make sure to inspect it carefully for:

Deep scratches: Check the base for any deep scratches that could affect performance.

Top sheet condition: Ensure the top sheet is intact and in good condition.

Rust on edges: Look for minimal rust on the edges and binding mounts.

Binding mounts: Verify that the binding mounts are factory-made and in good condition.

Determining Your Snowboard Size

To find the perfect snowboard size, consider your:

Height: Use the size chart to determine your ideal snowboard size based on your height and weight.

Weight: A longer snowboard may be more suitable for heavier riders.

Riding style: Freestyle riders prefer shorter boards, while all-mountain riders may prefer longer boards.
