

C.M. James Plans to Expand The Literaverse Beyond Books and Sound; A New Universe for All Creative Arts

Award-winning author and creative visionary C.M. James announces plans to evolve The Literaverse into a cross-industry collective connecting books, music, art, film, and design forming the foundation of a new creative era.

Nashville, Tennessee Nov 9, 2025 (Issuewire.com) - Award-winning author and Authorpreneur C.M. James is redefining what it means to build a creative empire. His journey began not with a book, but with a blueprint; Speak to My Assistant LLC, one of the first virtual assistant and consulting agencies to thrive just before the pandemic. That venture became the foundation of his business mindset, teaching him to treat every idea like a brand and every project like a business.

From there, James transformed structure into storytelling. C.M. James Writes LLC emerged as a publishing and literary agency that helped turn imagination into enterprise, releasing award-winning titles such as Alpha Blood: The Battle for Sanguis, The Dreamfall series, and Sterling The Contrarian; amongst multiple titles within a year. After the loss of his sister, the beloved singer Larysa Jaye, James founded C.M. Jaye Music LLC to continue her vision and empower other artists.

Under that label, he released her posthumous single “No Other Face (Like Mine)” a heartfelt tribute that resonated across Nashville. Soon after, James himself stepped behind the mic, dropping “3 Shots (The Drink-Along Song),” a gritty country-bar anthem that went viral locally.

That crossover moment blurred the lines between author and artist, leading to his next evolution:

The Literaverse.

The Literaverse began as an innovative storytelling platform uniting authors and musicians. It allows:

- Musicians to turn their songs into stories or immersive audiobooks with narration, sound design, and cinematic production, streamable on Spotify and the Literaverse site.
- Authors to collaborate with musicians, creating custom soundtracks that generate dual revenue from book sales and song streaming.

In its simplest form: a song is a story, and a story is a song.

The Literaverse merges both worlds, allowing creators to reach readers and listeners in the same moment, making storytelling something you can both read and feel.

Now, C.M. James is expanding that vision far beyond literature and sound. His next phase:

The Literaverse Media Group, will unify all creative disciplines into a single evolving ecosystem. Future divisions will explore:

- Dance, turning rhythm and motion into narrative.
- Art & Design, using visuals and form to extend stories beyond the frame.
- Architecture, where structure becomes storytelling and space becomes experience.
- Film & Performance, blending literary, musical, and cinematic expression.
- Technology & Interactive Media, integrating soundscapes, augmented visuals, and immersive digital storytelling.

These expansions align with C.M. James' Horizontal Synergy Ecosystem, a network of brands. It already includes Speak to My Assistant LLC, C.M. James Writes LLC, C.M. Jaye Music LLC, and Kascades Colonial LLC; all working together in one continuous cycle of creativity, structure, and purpose.

Plans for this expansion are already in early discussions with a small team of industry professionals collaborating directly with C.M. James. The ideas on the table have been described as bold, sustainable, and world-shifting, with major developments expected to roll out in 2026.

“Literature isn’t just words,” says James. “It’s creative art; words you can build with, dance with, sing with, design with. It’s all literature in its own way, creating one connected universe. As a writer of fiction, I’ve always said: fiction and imagination matter, because every invention or innovation was just a creative fiction...until it wasn’t.”

If you’re an artist, investor, innovator, or creative professional interested in partnering or contributing ideas to The Literaverse’s next phase, the team welcomes you to reach out and be part of the conversation.
