

Governors Face Historic Test: Climate Deadline Alliance Calls for Immediate Action to Pull Carbon from the Sky

Grand Junction, Colorado Nov 11, 2025 (IssueWire.com) - The Climate Deadline Alliance (CDA) today announced the release of the Interstate SkyCarbon Blueprint, a bold new plan for U.S. governors to join forces and launch a state-led effort to remove carbon dioxide directly from the atmosphere, the only remaining way to stop catastrophic global heating.

“The era of half-measures is over,” said Dr. Christian Komor, founder of the Climate Deadline Alliance. “Every governor who claims climate leadership now faces a choice: join the SkyCarbon Blueprint and begin carbon removal, or explain to future generations why they refused.”

The Interstate SkyCarbon Blueprint provides a practical path for states to cooperate on building and financing Direct Atmospheric Carbon Removal (DACR) facilities, using proven technology already operating abroad. The Blueprint details how twenty U.S. states could collectively remove 900 gigatons of CO₂ within two decades, turning captured carbon into fuels, construction materials, and biodegradable plastics while creating thousands of jobs and rebuilding local economies.

“Governors don’t have to wait for Congress or the courts,” said Eric Sutton, CDA’s Campaign Director. “They have the authority and the moral obligation to act now. The science is clear. The window for survival is closing.”

The Climate Deadline Alliance is calling on every U.S. governor, regardless of party, to:

- Publicly endorse the Interstate SkyCarbon Blueprint by December 31, 2025.
- Direct their state climate and economic development agencies to initiate DACR pilot planning in early 2026.
- Commit to working with other states to scale atmospheric carbon removal to the national level.

“This is the governors’ moment of truth,” Komor said. “Either they lead the rescue, or they become the story of why we failed.”

The Climate Deadline Alliance (CDA) is a global initiative committed to ending the climate crisis through education, innovation, and direct atmospheric carbon removal. CDA’s mission is guided by “The Seven Crucial Facts About Climate Change Most Americans Don’t Know,” which reveal why emissions cuts alone can no longer prevent runaway warming. The Alliance promotes the Interstate SkyCarbon Initiative as the decisive next step in America’s climate response.
