

LexDo.it raises €1.7 million to become the go-to platform for starting and managing new businesses

An expanding team, new AI-powered features, and a more advanced platform: LexDo.it continues its evolution and strengthens its leadership position in Italy.

Milan, Italy Nov 11, 2025 (IssueWire.com) - LexDo.it, Italy's first digital platform for launching, managing, and growing new businesses, announces the closing of a €1.7 million Pre-Series A round to further its mission to simplify business creation in Italy. The company, a leader in online business setup and management, aims to accelerate its growth and expand its workforce to around 100 people by the end of 2025.

The round includes investment from selected business angels, with participation from Invitalia and fintech company Viceversa. Notable investors include Roberto Spada (Founder of Spada Partners), Luca Orsini (Founder of Antares European Fund, and Roberto Lombardi (business angel and investor).

LexDo.it provides everything a new business needs: online company incorporation and comprehensive management of accounting, contracts, and consultancy in a single digital platform. Users also have access to a team of professionals and complementary tools such as business bank accounts, POS payment systems, access to grants and subsidized finance, and a variety of digital products and services.

The capital raised will be used to grow the team, which will double in size to about 100 employees by the end of 2025, adding developers, designers, and legal and accounting experts. The company will also accelerate technological development, launching new features powered by artificial intelligence and automation to further digitalize and simplify management processes for SMEs and professionals.

Italy is one of the largest markets in Europe, with 4.5 million active businesses (Eurostat), yet remains among the most complex and costly countries to start one. Opening costs and administrative requirements can exceed €4,000 on average. LexDo.it currently serves over 400,000 users and has already helped more than 6,500 new businesses get started, saving up to €3,000 in the first year compared to traditional channels.

"Entrepreneurs are the beating heart of the economy. We created LexDo.it because starting a business in Italy is still too difficult without facing bureaucratic obstacles. Today, we are proud to be the go-to partner for thousands of entrepreneurs who launch and manage their businesses entirely online with us," said Giovanni Toffoletto, CEO and Founder of LexDo.it. "With this new funding, we'll take another step forward to offer even greater support to Italian entrepreneurs, making it as easy as 'said and done' to start a business".

"We are proud to support LexDo.it on its path toward sustainable growth. At Viceversa, we back ambitious teams, deeply believing in their potential and providing them with non-dilutive capital and predictive analytics to help them scale faster, driven by quality, efficiency, and impact," said Matteo Masserdotti, CEO and Co-founder of Viceversa.

LexDo.it has been recognized by the Financial Times Innovative Lawyers Report and StartupItalia! as a standout in its field. The platform stands out for its ability to combine technology, reliability, and innovation into a unique and comprehensive service.
