

Nawar Alkhamesi, MD: Leading Colorectal Surgeon at Kadlec Clinic

Transforming Colorectal Healthcare in Richland, Washington Through Expertise, Innovation, and Compassionate Patient Care

Richland, Washington Nov 3, 2025 (IssueWire.com) - Nawar Alkhamesi, a renowned colorectal surgeon at Kadlec Clinic and a Professor of Surgery at Washington State University, is redefining colorectal healthcare in Richland, Washington. With extensive training and a dedication to advancing surgical techniques, he provides expert care for a broad spectrum of colorectal conditions, including colon and rectal cancer, inflammatory bowel disease, diverticular disease, anal fistulas, and hemorrhoids.

Dr. Alkhamesi is renowned for his proficiency in minimally invasive surgical techniques, including robotic, laparoscopic, and endoscopic surgery. These advanced methods not only enhance precision during procedures but also facilitate quicker patient recovery times, allowing patients to return to their daily lives with minimal disruption. His innovative approach to surgery has been instrumental in improving patient outcomes and driving ongoing advancements in surgical practices.

Dr. Alkhamesi's academic journey began at the prestigious Imperial College London, where he earned his Medical Degree and completed foundational surgical training. His passion for surgical innovation led him to the Department of Biosurgery and Surgical Technology at Imperial, where he developed the groundbreaking technique of peritoneal aerosolization in minimally invasive surgery. This research earned him a Doctor of Philosophy Degree from the University of London, focusing on the application of intraperitoneal aerosolization of therapeutics in minimally invasive surgical procedures.

Following his doctoral studies, Dr. Alkhamesi completed rigorous training in general and colorectal surgery at Imperial College London, further enhanced by a colorectal fellowship at St. Mark's Hospital and a minimally invasive and robotic fellowship at the Canadian Surgical Technologies & Advanced Robotics (CSTAR) program at the London Health Sciences Center, University of Western Ontario. In 2024, he completed his Executive MBA at Brandeis University, underscoring his commitment to both clinical excellence and healthcare management.

Before joining Kadlec Clinic, Dr. Alkhamesi served as a minimally invasive colorectal and general surgeon at the University of Western Ontario and Imperial College London, with experience at renowned hospitals such as The Royal Marsden and Chelsea and Westminster. His dedication to research has resulted in numerous accolades, grants, and over 40 publications in peer-reviewed journals, marking him as a leader in his field.

Dr. Alkhamesi is actively involved in various professional organizations, including the American College of Surgeons, the Society of American Gastrointestinal Endoscopic Surgeons, the American Society of Colon and Rectal Surgeons, the Canadian Association of General Surgeons, the Canadian Society of Colon and Rectal Surgeons, the Ontario Medical Association, the Association of Surgeons of Great Britain and Ireland, the Association of Coloproctology of Great Britain and Ireland, the British Association of Surgical Oncology, the Royal Society of Medicine, the European Society of Coloproctology, and the European Society of Surgical Oncology. His focus on surgical innovation, education, and advancements in colorectal oncology and minimally invasive techniques solidifies his reputation as a thought leader committed to improving surgical care.

Dr. Alkhamesi credits his success to an unwavering commitment to patient care and safety, a dedication to continuous learning, and a genuine desire to positively impact his patients' lives. Through his work at Kadlec Clinic, he brings both expertise and innovation to the Richland community, ensuring patients have access to advanced colorectal care and helping to improve health outcomes across the region.
