The platform streamlines what is traditionally a confusing and time-consuming experience, allowing entrepreneurs to register a corporation in minutes.

“Most founders waste hours trying to figure out government forms, compliance steps, or which structure to choose,” said Arfan Chaudhry, founder of Start Right Now. “We built this platform so Canadians can incorporate fast, avoid mistakes, and focus on building their business instead of getting buried in paperwork.”

With Start Right Now, entrepreneurs can complete key steps such as name searches, incorporation filings, articles, share structures, and organizational documents through a modern and intuitive interface. The platform also connects new businesses with recommended resources such as banking, bookkeeping, and essential tools to help founders get operational on day one.

The company aims to become a trusted partner for early-stage entrepreneurs in Canada by simplifying incorporation and providing ongoing access to tools that support business growth.
