

Allison W. Carter, RN, Recognized for Outstanding MedSurg Care and Compassion by America's Best in Medicine

Bringing Years of Expertise Across Diverse Nursing Specialties to Inpatient Care

Litchfield Park, Arizona Dec 11, 2025 (Issuewire.com) - Allison W. Carter, RN, a committed healthcare professional with over two decades of nursing experience, has been making significant strides in the field of MedSurg nursing. With a background that encompasses emergency care, home health, hospice, and wound care, Allison exemplifies a versatile and dedicated approach to nursing that prioritizes patient-centered care.

Since beginning her nursing career in 2006, Allison has navigated through various roles that have enriched her clinical skills and broadened her understanding of patient needs across different settings. Currently serving as a MedSurg Nurse, she utilizes her extensive experience to provide high-quality inpatient care, ensuring patients receive the best possible outcomes. She holds certifications in Advanced Cardiovascular Life Support (ACLS), Basic Life Support (BLS), and Pediatric Advanced Life Support (PALS), which further attest to her commitment to professional development and patient safety.

Holding an Associate of Science in Nursing from Phillips Community College with the University of Arkansas, Allison's nursing career began in emergency care, evolved through home health and hospice—where she has spent more than a decade pursuing her passion—and later expanded into specialized wound care and outpatient management.

Before her current role, Allison made significant contributions as the Director at Healogics and co-ran the Outpatient Department at Forrest City Medical Center Wound Care Center, in partnership with a nurse practitioner. She honed her skills in hyperbaric oxygen therapy (HBO), advanced wound care, and comprehensive patient management. This role allowed her to gain a deep understanding of both the clinical and administrative aspects of wound care, including financial and operational processes, which she successfully mastered independently.

Allison W. Carter is recognized not only for her clinical acumen but also for her unwavering dedication to enhancing patient care. As she continues her journey in MedSurg nursing, she remains committed to improving health outcomes and providing exceptional care to her patients.
