Peabody, Massachusetts Dec 19, 2025 (IssueWire.com) - A veterinary surgeon (MRCVS) with a strong foundation in biomedical sciences and a growing clinical focus in veterinary cardiology, Dr. Hermanowski joins the practice with exceptional academic and clinical qualifications. He graduated from the Royal Veterinary College in London, where he studied as an RVC International Scholar, and holds a distinguished background in biology and chemistry from the University of Vermont Honors College. His undergraduate thesis focused on the enzymatic inhibition of PARP in glioblastoma multiforme, highlighting his dedication to scientific innovation and evidence-based medicine.

Currently completing a small-animal rotating internship at the Cummings School of Veterinary Medicine at Tufts University, Dr. Hermanowski is advancing his clinical expertise across internal medicine, cardiology, surgery, and emergency care. His medical philosophy emphasizes collaboration, clear communication, and compassion—ensuring that every veterinary visit supports both pets and the families who love them.

Dr. Hermanowski brings a rare combination of scientific expertise, compassionate patient care, and advanced clinical training to the Borash Veterinary Clinic team. His addition strengthens the practice's commitment to delivering the highest standard of veterinary care and supports the expansion of cardiology services that will benefit pets and families throughout the North Shore community.
