

Newport Veterinary Hospital Offers Premier, Medically-Supervised Pet Boarding in Rock Hill, SC

Newport Veterinary Hospital provides specialized, full-service boarding for dogs and cats. It ensures safety, comfort, and personalized care while owners are away.

Rock Hill, South Carolina Dec 19, 2025 (Issuewire.com) - Newport Veterinary Hospital in Rock Hill, SC, is a trusted leader in animal health and wellness. The hospital is proud to promote its comprehensive and compassionate pet boarding services. This positions the practice as the premier choice for pet owners in Rock Hill and the greater York County area. Recognizing that leaving a beloved pet can be stressful, the facility goes beyond basic kenneling. It integrates comfort and security with on-site medical supervision, ensuring peace of mind for pet parents.

The boarding program is made to meet the unique needs of both dogs and cats. Felines enjoy a quiet, dedicated space with condos, a window view, and a calming fish tank. They are completely isolated from the sounds and activity of the dog area. Canines are housed in clean, comfortable indoor cages or spacious runs, sized appropriately for their needs. This careful separation and attention to the environment reduce stress, making the stay feel more like a second home.

What truly distinguishes the hospital's boarding is the specialized care. It is spearheaded by the hospital's dedicated clinical team, including co-owner and Medical Director, Dr. Katie Propst, D.V.M. Dr. Propst, a proud native of York County. His extensive experience in soft tissue surgery and general wellness embodies the clinic's commitment to building lasting relationships with pets and clients. Whether a pet requires specific dietary adherence, medication administration, or monitoring for existing medical conditions, the veterinary staff is equipped to provide an unmatched level of care. Optional enrichment services, such as basic baths, nail trims, and extra playtime, are also available to help care for pets during their stay.
