

Silvertung Expresses the Inner Conflict in 'THIS HELL'

Bringing a brilliant mix of nu metal and heavy metal, Silvertung releases a brand new song, 'THIS HELL'. The song digs into inner conflict with heavy riffs.

Baltimore, Dec 27, 2025 (IssueWire.com) - Showcasing versatility and creative talent, mesmerizing artist Silvertung returns to the stage with a brand new song. Titled 'THIS HELL', the track is a combination of different genres such as hard rock, metalcore, and nu-metal, transcending genres to give the audience something worth remembering. Rooted in hard rock and modern metal, the song opens with a tense guitar pattern that slowly tightens its grip. Then the rhythm section comes in the composition, giving the song a steady push forward.

The song takes its time to build pressure before releasing it in waves, and this is the true magic that the artist successfully created for his audience. The composition of the song is filled with contrast. The verses of the track lean inward with a darker tone, which lets restraint do its job. Additionally, it explodes with thick guitars when the chorus arrives. The structure created by Silvertung in the record is intentional, rising and falling as if it were controlled chaos. Lyrically, the song explores inner conflict and personal reckoning. The lyrics carry anger as well as resolve. This gets beautifully complemented by the artist's vocals. His delivery moves between raw aggression and melodic control with ease.

'THIS HELL' is a classic example of a song that takes listeners on an unforgettable journey. It is heavy, it is metallic, and it is built to connect through sound and honesty.
