Colorado Springs, Colorado Dec 24, 2025 (Issuewire.com) - Superior Systems, a trusted sprinkler and landscaping company serving the Colorado Springs region, extends warm holiday wishes to the community while looking ahead to the 2026 irrigation season. As families gather to celebrate Christmas and begin planning for the New Year, the family-owned business with over 35 years of experience emphasizes its readiness to help homeowners achieve their spring landscaping and outdoor improvement goals.

Founded over three decades ago by owner Johnny Smothers, Superior Systems has established itself as a reliable partner for homeowners seeking professional sprinkler maintenance, installation, and landscaping services across Colorado Springs, Cimarron Hills, Fountain, and Pueblo West.

"We want to wish everyone in our community a very Merry Christmas," said Johnny Smothers, CEO and Owner of Superior Systems. "As we celebrate with our families and reflect on this past year, we're also looking forward to spring with excitement. The New Year brings new opportunities for homeowners to create the outdoor spaces they've been dreaming about, and we're ready to help make those visions a reality."

The winter months provide homeowners with ideal planning time for spring irrigation and landscaping projects. While sprinkler systems rest beneath the snow and frozen ground, families can thoughtfully consider upgrades, new installations, or landscape redesigns that will transform their properties when warmer weather returns.

Superior Systems specializes in sprinkler installation, maintenance, and winterization services, with additional capabilities in landscaping and hardscaping projects. The company's 35 years of experience have created deep expertise in irrigation systems that perform reliably in Colorado's unique climate conditions.

What clients often describe as a "generational business," Superior Systems has built lasting relationships that span from grandparents to grandchildren. This multi-generational client base reflects the trust and reliability the company has established over more than three decades of service in the Colorado Springs area.

"The New Year is the perfect time to start planning your outdoor improvements," Smothers explained.

"Whether you're thinking about upgrading an aging sprinkler system, installing irrigation for new landscaping, or tackling hardscaping projects you've been considering, winter planning sets you up for success when spring arrives. We're here to help you design systems that will keep your property beautiful throughout the growing season."

Superior Systems maintains an impressive 98 percent retention rate among its clients, with homeowners returning year after year for seasonal maintenance and new projects. This loyalty reflects both the quality of the company's work and the relationships it has built within the Colorado Springs community.

The company's family-owned approach emphasizes personalized service and technical expertise. Superior Systems' experienced technicians understand the challenges posed by Colorado's dramatic temperature swings, unpredictable weather patterns, and unique soil conditions, enabling the team to recommend solutions tailored to southern Colorado properties.

January and February provide opportunities for homeowners to consult with Superior Systems about spring irrigation needs without the time pressure of active growing season. Early planning allows for thoughtful system design, material selection, and scheduling that ensures projects are completed before landscaping demands peak.

As homeowners set goals for 2026, many envision outdoor spaces that require proper irrigation to thrive. Superior Systems helps translate these visions into functional, efficient sprinkler systems that deliver water where needed while conserving resources and minimizing waste.

Smothers emphasizes that the company's decades of experience enable Superior Systems to guide homeowners through every aspect of irrigation planning, from initial consultation and system design to installation and ongoing maintenance support.

"As we celebrate Christmas with our loved ones, we're grateful for the trust our community has placed in us for over 35 years," Smothers said. "We're excited to continue serving Colorado Springs area families in 2026, helping create and maintain beautiful outdoor spaces that homeowners can enjoy throughout the year."

The company's commitment to the Colorado Springs community extends across generations of families, with Superior Systems often serving multiple generations of the same households. This generational connection creates relationships built on decades of consistent service and mutual trust.
