

UnleashX Launches Voice AI Agent Platform to Automate Business Conversations at Scale

The voice AI agent platform helps businesses run sales, support, and operations using AI-powered voice agents without increasing headcount

Gurgaon, Haryana Dec 30, 2025 (IssueWire.com) - UnleashX today announced the launch of its voice AI agent platform, designed to help businesses automate customer conversations and operational workflows through human-like AI voice agents available 24/7.

The UnleashX voice AI agent platform enables organizations to deploy AI voice agents that can speak naturally with customers, understand intent, trigger workflows, and update business systems in real time. These agents manage inbound and outbound calls across sales, customer support, collections, renewals, appointment scheduling, and follow-ups, allowing teams to scale operations without adding manual workload.

Unlike traditional IVR systems or scripted voice bots, UnleashX combines conversational AI with a no-code workflow builder. Businesses can visually design workflows, connect AI agents to CRMs, payment gateways, calendars, and internal tools, and deploy them across voice calls, WhatsApp, SMS, and email from a single unified platform.

The platform operates on a usage-based pricing model, ensuring businesses pay only when AI voice agents are actively handling conversations. There are no fixed licenses or idle costs, allowing companies to scale from a few calls to thousands per day without plan changes. Unused credits roll forward, keeping automation spend aligned with actual business usage.

UnleashX is built for industries where conversations directly impact revenue and efficiency, including insurance, e-commerce, healthcare, real estate, education, and financial services. Common use cases include lead qualification, cart abandonment recovery, payment reminders, policy renewals, customer onboarding, and post-sale support.

“Businesses don’t need more tools, they need automation that actually works,” said Ajay Kadyan, Founder of UnleashX. “We built UnleashX as a voice AI agent platform that acts like a digital workforce, handling real conversations and real business processes end-to-end, not just answering calls.”

The platform also offers real-time analytics and performance dashboards, providing visibility into call volumes, outcomes, sentiment, and automation impact. By integrating deeply with existing systems, UnleashX allows organizations to automate complete processes rather than isolated tasks.

With its launch, UnleashX positions voice AI as a scalable digital workforce, helping businesses operate faster, reduce operational costs, and deliver consistent customer engagement without expanding teams.
