Quote from the Author:

“Every story I write is meant to both entertain and educate — to show that kindness and curiosity can lead us to the most meaningful adventures of all.” — Scottie E. McDaniell

A Story of Friendship, Courage, and the Joy of Learning

In this delightful new adventure, Billy continues his quest for knowledge when he wanders into an alley behind a small-town restaurant. Hoping to learn about food preparation (and maybe enjoy a few tasty leftovers), he comes in contact with a funny-looking little mouse, with uneven whiskers, short tail, two un-matching ears, and white patch on his head. Billy names him Squeak for the noises he makes.

Despite their differences, Billy and Squeak form a fast friendship — and soon find themselves teaming up to stop not one, but two robberies at the restaurant!

Full of ingenuity, empathy, courage, and humor, this story highlights the power of teamwork, understanding, and acceptance. Children will also love McDaniell’s signature word challenge — spotting all the culinary terms woven throughout the story, with definitions provided at the end for an educational twist.
