With a robust background in real estate and patient advocacy, George has honed his skills to provide a seamless experience for clients navigating the complexities of the real estate market.

His journey in real estate began after a successful 13-year tenure as a Patient Advocate at Bayhealth, where he developed crucial skills in communication, empathy, and guidance. These attributes have become the cornerstone of his real estate practice. Since retiring from Bayhealth on June 1, 2018, George has fully committed himself to helping clients achieve their real estate goals, ensuring their interests are protected from negotiations through to contract execution and settlement.

“Real estate is much more than just buying and selling properties; it’s about people and their dreams,” says George. “I strive to provide calm and clear guidance every step of the way, whether my clients are purchasing their first home or selling a long-time residence. My goal is to make the process as stress-free and informed as possible.”

George’s extensive experience in the real estate market equips him with valuable insights into current trends, pricing strategies, and buyer behavior in the Sussex and Kent County areas. His comprehensive approach includes not only advising clients on market conditions but also connecting them with trusted local professionals, such as lenders, home inspectors, and contractors, to ensure they receive the best possible support throughout their transaction.

For sellers, George emphasizes the importance of local insight and strategic marketing. “Selling a home requires more than just listing it online; it demands in-depth knowledge of the local market, effective pricing strategies, and consistent communication,” he explains. “I work closely with sellers to prepare, price, and market their properties, ensuring they capture genuine buyer interest.”

George’s hands-on approach includes personalized staging suggestions, managing showings, and negotiating offers, allowing clients to focus on their next steps without the added stress of intricate details. His commitment to honesty and integrity has earned him a reputation as a trusted advisor, and his clients appreciate his unwavering dedication to putting their best interests first.

George has lived in Milford, Delaware, since 2001 and remains an active member of the community. He holds several impressive designations, including Military Relocation Professional (MRP), At Home With Diversity (AHWD), and Seniors Real Estate Specialist (SRES). These credentials reflect his commitment to serving diverse client needs, whether they are veterans, seniors, or first-time homebuyers.

In addition to his professional endeavors, George is passionate about giving back to his community. He actively supports organizations that raise funds for children with cancer, demonstrating his belief in making a positive impact beyond real estate.
