Greg Maloof: A Trusted Name in Home Inspection Services in Massachusetts and Southern New Hampshire

Methuen, Massachusetts Jan 28, 2026 (Issuewire.com) - Greg Maloof, a Licensed Home Inspector with the Home Inspection Association, Incorporated, is proud to announce his continued commitment to providing exceptional home inspection services throughout Massachusetts and southern New Hampshire. With over two decades of hands-on experience and a family legacy in the industry, Greg stands as a trusted resource for home buyers seeking clarity and confidence in their real estate investments.

Founded by Greg's grandfather & great uncle in 1960, the family-owned inspection company has deep roots in the real estate and construction industries. Greg's journey in home inspection began in the early 2000s, where he apprenticed in the Boston area, gaining invaluable experience and insight into residential property evaluation. His dedication to the profession led him to earn his Associate Inspector credentials in 2007 and achieve full licensing status in 2008.

In addition to his home inspection qualifications, Greg is a licensed electrician with extensive field experience. His background includes electrical service installations, system upgrades, fire alarm systems, and low-voltage controls, which allows him to approach inspections with a comprehensive, systems-based perspective. This unique combination of skills ensures that clients receive not only thorough inspections but also practical insights into the home's functioning.

Since transitioning to full-time home inspections in 2013, Greg has focused on delivering detailed, objective evaluations of residential properties. His inspections encompass all essential aspects, including structural components, roofing and exterior elements, and major systems such as plumbing, electrical, heating, and air conditioning. Greg's straightforward communication style and commitment to educating clients empower them with a complete understanding of their potential new homes. He provides on-site explanations and detailed written reports, enabling buyers to make informed decisions with confidence.

Greg's success is rooted in his technical expertise, honest communication, and dedication to client education. He enjoys meeting new home buyers and guiding them through the complexities of home ownership, ensuring they are well-prepared for their new responsibilities.

Outside of his professional life, Greg is passionate about learning new skills and has a keen interest in automobiles and recreational shooting as a licensed firearm owner. He is also a former hockey player, having enjoyed the sport for many years.
