

Nicholas Tabor, MS, RMHCI Recognized by America's Best in Medicine for Compassionate Mental Health Care

Empowering Individuals in Clermont, Florida Through Compassionate, Evidence-Based Mental Health Counseling

Clermont, Florida Jan 16, 2026 (IssueWire.com) - Nicholas (Nick) Tabor, MS, RMHCI, a dedicated Registered Mental Health Counselor Intern, is making significant strides in the field of mental health counseling. Based in Clermont, Florida, Nick is committed to providing compassionate, ethical, and evidence-based care to individuals seeking support for their emotional and mental health needs. As a 2024 graduate of Bellevue University's Clinical Mental Health Counseling program, he brings a wealth of knowledge and a genuine desire to foster safe and inclusive environments for his clients.

Currently serving at Let's Talk About, Nick utilizes research-based interventions to assess and address the unique emotional, behavioral, and mental health challenges faced by his clients. His collaborative therapeutic approach, combined with exceptional listening skills, allows him to create a supportive space where clients can openly communicate and engage in personal growth. Prior to this role, he honed his clinical skills during an internship with Lutheran Counseling Services, facilitating connections between clients and essential community resources.

Nick's extensive background as a Victim Advocate with Bridges: Domestic & Sexual Violence Support Services has equipped him with the expertise to assist individuals in crisis, collaborating with multidisciplinary teams to support survivors through their most challenging experiences. His experience in various jobs further developed his communication, problem-solving, and teamwork skills, which he honed while working in high-pressure, guest-focused environments—abilities that continue to enhance his effectiveness as a mental health professional.

Holding a Bachelor of Science in Clinical Psychology from the University of Central Florida, Nick is passionate about lifelong learning and professional development within the field of mental health. "What I enjoy most about counseling is the opportunity to build meaningful relationships and collaborate with others in their journey toward growth," says Nick. "Every session feels like a shared exploration—an honest, evolving conversation where I get to witness clients discover their strengths, resilience, and capacity for change. I find deep fulfillment in creating those connections and watching people begin to feel supported not just by me, but by a larger sense of community."

Nicholas Tabor is dedicated to empowering individuals to build resilience, achieve personal goals, and experience meaningful, lasting change in their lives. His commitment to ethical practice and continuous growth positions him as a vital resource for the Clermont community and beyond.
