LOVE + EVOLUTION
Good decisions in love & knowing the difference

Bronx, New York Feb 2, 2026 (Issuewire.com) - Hip hop veteran Omillio Sparks, known globally for his legacy with Roc-A-Fella Records and State Property, recently sat down with Sarah J. Preston, Editor-in-Chief, CEO, and Culture Creator of Kingship Hip Hop, for an electrifying interview that blended music, creativity, mental health advocacy, and unexpected imagination.

During the conversation, Sparks with song " Give it to me " featured with Jay z of Roc A Fella, and also known for his role in "State Property" with Jay Z and Damon Dash, opens up about his latest musical releases, including the highly talented track "Brown Paper Bag Money." This record showcases Sparks' signature lyrical grit, storytelling, and evolution as an artist who continues to influence the culture.

But Sparks didn't stop at music. He also highlighted the mission behind The Omillio Sparks Foundation, an organization dedicated to addressing mental health challenges among Black men. Through community engagement, resources, and open dialogue, Sparks aims to break stigmas and create safe spaces for healing.

A Wolf, A Gorilla... or Both? The Birth of the "Wolfilla Gorilla"

In one of the interview's most memorable moments, Sarah J. Preston tapped into Sparks' creative spirit with a playful question inspired by her book The Hifian Upload, based on her Hifi Art Express collection of musically gifted animal hybrids.

When asked what animal he would be, Sparks fused strength and instinct, answering: "A wolf... and a gorilla."

Preston immediately coined the now-iconic phrase: "A Wolfilla Gorilla."

The two shared a laugh — and a spark of inspiration. Fans may even see this new creature make an appearance in Preston's upcoming sequel, THE HIFIAN UPLOAD 2.
