Quote from Author

"I stumbled on to this incredible self-healing tool toward the end of 1976 when I watched the made-for-TV movie, Sybil, about a woman who had multiple personality disorder and had suffered childhood traumas. As a thirty-two-year-old wife and mother of two young children, I was in my second year of recovery from drug, alcohol and an eating addiction, and realized I too needed to find a healing path for my past traumas... but for my younger selves.

Through exploring visualizations, writing communications, and a commitment to becoming the parent my younger ages needed, I began a healing path that has offered stabilizing, comforting tools for all of life's heartbreaks, ups and downs... a life beyond my wildest dreams." — Becky Lu Jackson
