Flags and flagpoles are not a sideline for Fly Me Flag – they are the company’s primary focus. By employing American workers and providing expert guidance on stock and custom flags, flagpole installation, and flag etiquette, Fly Me Flag supports customers at every stage of their flag-flying journey while remaining deeply committed to supporting American manufacturing.

Where Was Your Flag Made?

Clip it, hang it, wave it, fly it. When you see the red, white, and blue, what do you do? If you’re a veteran, you salute it. Do you feel the same pride saluting a flag made overseas?

Certified by the Flag Manufacturers Association of America (FMAA) and the National Independent Flag Dealers Association (NIFDA) , every Fly Me Flag U.S. flag is made entirely in America – using domestic materials, sewn by American workers, in U.S. factories. That commitment gives customers confidence knowing their flag supports American jobs and helps give back to those who have served.

Fly Me Flag is partnered with Helping Out Our American Heroes Wisconsin (H.O.O.A.H. WI) to provide flagpoles to distinguished veterans, installing five professional-grade flagpoles in their local community each year. The company is also committed to long-term support through donated flags, accessories, and ongoing maintenance for each recipient.

By choosing Fly Me Flag, customers support American manufacturing, honor veterans, and take pride in knowing that their flag meets verified American-made standards.

Don’t Miss Out

With increased demand expected ahead of the 4th of July and the nation’s semiquincentennial, Fly Me Flag encourages customers to plan ahead. As a one-stop shop for flags, flagpoles, and custom banners, the company is proud to help communities, organizations, and individuals prepare to celebrate 250 years of freedom – while also marking 40 years of Fly Me Flag serving America with flags that uphold the values they symbolize.
