

From Family Values to Fabric Excellence: Multi-Generational Quality Standards That Last Decades

Deland, Florida Feb 3, 2026 (IssueWire.com) - Ball Fabrics, a multi-generational, family-owned manufacturer of windscreens, privacy screens, sports netting, and shade tops, is highlighting how its uncompromising standards for quality and customer care translate into long-term customer relationships and repeat product adoption.

After extensive research and vendor comparison, Embry-Riddle Athletics began using Ball Fabrics products more than a decade ago. Since then, the university's sports complex has expanded its use of ExtremeScreen®80 windscreens from the baseball field to additional athletic facilities, citing performance, durability, and support as key reasons.

In a testimonial, Woody Galbreath, Director of Sports Complex, Embry-Riddle Athletics, describes how he came to rely so much on Ball Fabrics over the years.

"After doing plenty of research and visiting several other companies, I found Ball Fabrics 13 years ago. Your staff is knowledgeable, courteous, and friendly. They truly care about every customer as it was their first,"

“Since we went with your product ExtremeScreen at our baseball field four years ago, we could not be happier,” continues Galbreath. “It looks better, lasts longer, and is easier to install than a standard windscreen. Your product is so good we have also installed it at our softball, soccer, and track facilities. I would highly recommend Ball Fabrics and ExtremeScreen to anyone that wants great products and off the charts customer care.”

Family Ownership, Consistent Standards

For more than 35 years, Ball Fabrics has developed and manufactured windscreens, privacy screens, sports netting, padding, and shade tops “to the highest quality standards in the industry.” As a multi-generational family business, the company emphasizes continuity in how it treats customers and how it builds products.

That philosophy shows up in details governing the materials and processes used to create products, such as durable threads, heavy borders, closely spaced grommets, and reinforced corners. These and similar choices are designed to improve appearance, longevity, and confidence for distributors, installers, and facility owners.

“We believe high-quality materials and genuine customer care set Ball Fabrics apart in the industry,” said Jon Ball, VP of Marketing, Ball Fabrics. “Every project, whether a small shade top or a stadium-sized installation, receives our complete attention.”

“Our family name is on every product that leaves the building,” added Ball. “That’s why we obsess over the details you can see and the ones you can’t.”

Serving a Wide Range of Athletic and Commercial Applications

Ball Fabrics manufactures products for a variety of sports and environments, including:

- Windscreens and privacy screens such as ExtremeScreen®80, PrivaScreen®90, and VCP Windscreen.
- Bleacher wraps and branding solutions for athletic facilities, sporting events, recreation areas, construction sites, and private clubs.
- Applications across tennis & pickleball, baseball & softball, batter’s eye, golf, football, and multi-sports events, as well as commercial and industrial sites.

Fence screens, windscreens, and privacy screens serve a few key functions. They offer privacy, protect people and property from harsh weather, and provide a setting for branding, such as logos and murals.

By pairing product expertise with hands-on support, from measurement guidance to installation best practices, Ball Fabrics helps customers reduce maintenance issues and extend product life. They also offer some of the industry’s most extensive and strongest warranties.
