

From Katrina Survivor to Tour Headliner: La Princess Becky Announces “That’s Her Tour”

La Princess Becky Announces Statewide Tour Following Recent Prison Release

Houston, Texas Feb 4, 2026 (Issuewire.com) - La Princess Becky, an emerging artist and visionary entrepreneur, has officially announced her first self-funded promotional tour titled “That’s Her Tour.” This highly anticipated tour represents a powerful milestone in Becky’s career and reflects her unwavering commitment to faith, artistic growth, and meaningful community impact.

Originally from the Lower 9th Ward of New Orleans, Becky later relocated to Houston, Texas, after surviving Hurricane Katrina—an experience that deeply shaped her resilience, perspective, and spiritual foundation. While her journey has been marked by perseverance, it has also included profound personal challenges. In 2022, Becky faced a devastating turning point when her mother was arrested and later sentenced to 15 years in federal prison. The emotional weight of this experience led Becky to step away from the music industry to grieve, heal, and realign her life with her faith and family.

Now, after a season of reflection, prayer, and personal restoration, Becky is making a purposeful return. She is using her platform to share a message rooted in perseverance, gratitude, healing, and the importance of trusting God’s timing over human expectations.

Throughout the tour, La Princess Becky will perform alongside established, well-known artists while also spotlighting new and upcoming talent, creating opportunities and visibility for the next generation of creatives. This approach reflects her passion for mentorship, collaboration, and uplifting others within the music industry.

As a devoted mother, Becky has thoughtfully arranged for her children to travel with their professional care team and join her during school breaks and select weekends, especially when tour stops are near Texas. This intentional balance allows her to remain present both as a parent and as an artist.

Beyond music, Becky continues to expand her long-term vision. She has recently purchased 22 acres of undeveloped land in the West Texas desert mountains, signaling future plans that extend beyond touring and emphasize legacy, growth, and generational impact.

“That’s Her Tour” is more than a series of performances—it is a living testimony of faith, patience, healing, and purpose, designed to inspire audiences to recognize how good God is and why trusting divine timing truly matters.
