

Shivpuri Farm Revolutionizing Farm-to-Home Organic Vegetable Delivery in Indore, India

A fast-growing agri startup connects local farmers directly with urban households, delivering fresh, chemical-free produce through a sustainable farm-to-home model.

Indore, Madhya Pradesh Feb 24, 2026 (Issuewire.com) - Shivpuri Farm, a rapidly growing agri-startup based in Indore, is transforming the way urban households access fresh and organic vegetables through its innovative farm-to-home delivery model. By working directly with local farmers, the company ensures that customers receive pesticide-free produce that is freshly harvested and delivered within hours.

Founded with a mission to promote sustainable agriculture and support farmer livelihoods, Shivpuri Farm sources fruits and vegetables directly from nearby farms. This eliminates middlemen and helps farmers earn better prices while providing consumers with high-quality produce at competitive rates.

With increasing awareness about healthy eating and chemical-free food, Shivpuri Farm has witnessed steady growth in demand. The company currently serves hundreds of households every month, delivering seasonal vegetables, fruits, and groceries through an efficient online ordering system and WhatsApp-based customer support.

“Our vision is to build a transparent farm-to-consumer ecosystem that benefits both farmers and customers,” said a spokesperson from Shivpuri Farm. “We believe that access to fresh and safe food should be simple, reliable, and affordable for every family.”

Shivpuri Farm’s operational model focuses on sustainability, quality control, and timely delivery. The company emphasizes responsible farming practices, minimal packaging waste, and community engagement to create a long-term positive impact on both agriculture and consumer health.

As demand for organic and farm-fresh produce continues to grow in urban India, Shivpuri Farm aims to expand its farmer network, enhance logistics capabilities, and strengthen its digital platform to serve a larger customer base in the coming years.
