

Strategic Brilliance Lab Launches to Address the Workforce's Most Critical Skill Gap

Live Demo on February 11 Addresses the Workforce's Top Skill Gap as Critical Thinking Leads WEF Rankings for Five Years

Atlanta, Georgia Feb 11, 2026 (IssueWire.com) - Strategic Brilliance Lab, founded by leadership strategist Dr. Taunya Lowe, launches today to address the workforce's most persistent and urgent gap: critical thinking. Aligned with the World Economic Forum's Future of Jobs findings, the platform responds to a striking reality—critical thinking has ranked as the #1 essential workforce skill for five consecutive years, yet remains one of the least intentionally developed.

As organizations accelerate AI adoption and decision-making speed, many leaders are overwhelmed with information but underprepared to think strategically when answers are unclear and the stakes are high.

Strategic Brilliance Lab was built to change that.

Unlike traditional training programs that emphasize skill acquisition or content delivery, Strategic Brilliance Lab develops how leaders think—not just what they know. The platform serves as a human-centered, AI-enabled thinking system designed to strengthen judgment, discernment, and decision quality in complex, real-world environments.

“After training more than 5,000 professionals across six continents, I’ve seen the same pattern everywhere,” said Dr. Taunya Lowe, CEO and founder. “Organizations invest heavily in tools, data, and information delivery—yet struggle with the very capability the World Economic Forum continues to rank as most critical: thinking. We’re not facing a skills shortage; we’re facing a thinking gap. Strategic Brilliance Lab develops the capacity leaders need when answers aren’t obvious, and speed alone isn’t enough.”

Dr. Lowe, who holds a Ph.D. in Human Services and is pursuing Chief AI Officer certification, brings more than two decades of experience in organizational transformation to the platform. Strategic Brilliance Lab integrates proven leadership methodologies with AI-enabled personalization to deliver on-demand critical thinking development—supporting leaders as they navigate complexity, uncertainty, and rapid change.

What Sets Strategic Brilliance Lab Apart:

- Directly addresses the World Economic Forum’s #1 ranked workforce skill.
- Develops thinking capacity, not just transferable skills.
- AI-enabled and grounded in 20+ years of real-world leadership practice.
- Available 24/7 for reflection, decision support, and applied learning.
- Scalable across organizations, preparing for widespread reskilling by 2030.

Organizations, institutions, and leaders interested in strengthening critical thinking capacity can explore and experience Strategic Brilliance Lab in action at Home | Strategic Brilliance Lab

The launch comes at a pivotal moment. With nearly half of the global workforce projected to require reskilling by 2030, organizations are discovering that tools and automation alone cannot compensate for weak judgment, shallow analysis, or reactive leadership. Strategic Brilliance Lab offers a sustainable alternative—one focused on strengthening human thinking alongside technological advancement.
