Board-Certified Surgeon Specializing in Hand Surgery, Nerve Reconstruction, and Complex Extremity Care Combines Surgical Expertise, Mentorship, and Patient-Focused Treatment

Durango, Colorado Mar 13, 2026 (Issuewire.com) - Matt Iorio, MD, is a board-certified plastic and reconstructive surgeon at Peak Rejuvenation in Durango, Colorado, specializing in hand surgery, nerve reconstruction, and complex wound and extremity care. Over more than a decade of practice, Dr. Iorio has dedicated his career to treating severe injuries and challenging conditions, helping patients preserve function, manage pain, and regain independence even when other options seemed limited.

A native of Texas who grew up in Phoenix, Arizona, Dr. Iorio completed his undergraduate studies at the University of Chicago, earned his Medical Degree from Georgetown University School of Medicine, and completed fellowship training at the University of Washington's Harborview Medical Center. He later served on the faculty of Harvard Medical School before joining the University of Colorado School of Medicine, where he helped establish nationally recognized programs in extremity reconstruction, wound care, and orthoplastic surgery.

Throughout his career, Dr. Iorio has become known for taking on complex cases often referred after patients were told amputation was their only option. Using advanced techniques such as targeted muscle reinnervation (TMR) and complex microsurgery, he has been able to restore function, reduce phantom limb pain, and enable patients to return to meaningful activities. His clinical expertise spans traumatic limb injuries, chronic pain, and complex wound care, offering hope and solutions for some of the most challenging cases in reconstructive surgery.

Beyond surgical care, Dr. Iorio is a passionate educator and mentor. He has published more than 130 scientific articles and 25 textbook chapters, and his contributions have earned him recognition as a multiple-time "Teacher of the Year" and a "Hand Surgery Research All-Star," ranking among the top 0.5% of microsurgery scholars worldwide. He has directed microsurgical training programs, mentored medical students and residents, and lectured nationally and internationally, helping shape the next generation of surgeons. Many of his former trainees have gone on to leadership roles in the field, a source of great pride for him.

When he is not in the operating room or teaching, Dr. Iorio enjoys exploring the outdoors through hiking, camping, and off-roading, fully embracing the lifestyle that Durango offers. His approach to medicine is simple yet profound: to provide world-class surgical care in a community setting where patients feel heard, cared for, and supported every step of the way.

Through his combined focus on advanced surgical skill, mentorship, and patient-centered care, Dr. Matt Iorio continues to make a meaningful impact on the lives of patients, families, and the broader surgical community, helping individuals overcome complex challenges and achieve their best possible outcomes.
