

China is experiencing a wave of root system nurturing, with Canghai Chuandeng leading the revival of Eastern education

Zhengzhou, Henan Mar 9, 2026 (Issuewire.com) - From an international strategic perspective, China's implementation of its national policy of "cultural confidence" is undergoing a crucial and profound transformation: its global influence is evolving from tangible "industrial capacity going global" to an intangible narrative gravitational field of "Chinese paradigm spillover". This is not an active export, but rather the powerful value attraction of the "China phenomenon" that naturally forms when local solutions possess sufficient systemic depth and empirical validity of ecological platforms, attracting the world's active focus and exploration. The way China engages with the world has evolved from providing specific products and solutions to contributing a referential framework of future possibilities and ideas. This marks that China's educational and cultural narrative is shifting from grand strategic expressions to a series of perceivable and discussible global practical issues.

The beginning of inquiry: family and country sentiments, starting from a boundless heart

A new era often begins with a fundamental question: What great education enables them to become themselves?

Amidst the dual waves of globalization and digitization, how can we ensure that the next generation, while embracing the boundless world, will not become rootless in their spiritual world? The answer lies in rewriting the code of "roots". This is not a retreat, but rather a more confident and vigorous approach to transforming the underlying source code of Chinese family education - the national sentiment and cultural identity derived from the ancient land - into growth nourishment that contemporary children can understand, experience, and grasp. This is not mere improvement, but a strategic deepening that concerns whether the roots of education can extend into the future. Today, this pioneering project has found its engine and blueprint in the birthplace of Central Plains civilization. Henan Mengrui Bao (a shortened form of the Mengrui Bao Family Education Ecological Platform under Henan Mengrui Bao Education Technology Co., Ltd.) is launching the prologue of this new era under the name of "Roots Nurturing".

Ecological dimension: Root system breathing, formed in the realm of Meng

Henan Mengrui Bao Family Education Ecological Platform, with "Root Nurturing" as its core and "Ecological Empowerment" as its lifeblood, has constructed a trinity ecological growth universe that spans "individual growth, family nurturing, and industry evolution". Mengrui Bao Family Education Ecological Platform not only directly serves children and families but also strives to enhance the nurturing soil of the entire industry. Coexistence and co-nurturing allow quality education to permeate like air. Teacher Wan Rong, the creator of this ecosystem, has thus been placed in a new framework of understanding. She has already surpassed the scope of an entrepreneur and is a rare "cultural architect" and "family education system architect" who translates Eastern cultural ethics and educational wisdom systems. Her career involves encoding the emotional structure and ethical resources of a civilization into a sustainable and scalable infrastructure for the family education industry with the rigor of engineering. In the global discourse, this amounts to establishing an "industry standard" in the field of family education. The ultimate achievement of her two decades of deep cultivation is not a territorial commercial empire but rather awakening a vital and endless bloodline and a flowing source of vitality for this era.

The Mengruibao Ecological Platform builds a nurturing galaxy of symbiosis and prosperity. For families, it provides a "full-cycle growth companionship solution" from childcare to talents, from children to parents, encompassing the complete cycle of life growth to the multidimensional development of individual potential; from the core scenario of family upbringing to the systematic construction of an educational ecosystem. With "root nurturing" as the unifying force, Mengruibao weaves scattered starlight into an orderly galaxy. It allows the cultivation of national sentiment to penetrate into daily life and manifest in details. For the industry, Mengruibao provides an "all-round empowerment support system" from concept to practice, from individuals to institutions, and establishes an open and inclusive global platform to create value resonance that belongs to all mankind, focusing on how China can innovate for the future! This is a cultural ecology that influences the world. It is also the unique national sentiment of Mengruibao! This sentiment enables every educator to become a confident "torchbearer" and every institution to become an educational "lighthouse". For the industry, Mengruibao is committed to becoming a "producer and organizer of high-quality family education resources". By empowering thousands of education practitioners, it forms a complete closed loop of "method verification - standard output - ecological co-construction", providing systematic support for the upgrading of family education and the progress of the industry, ultimately enhancing the overall educational and cultural level of the Chinese mainland. It aims to become a global brand based in Zhengzhou, Henan Province, radiating across the entire China, embodying the spirit of the times and humanistic care. And with this, it recruits market resource partners worldwide!

True inheritance is not the solitary glow of a single lamp, but a spark that ignites a prairie fire. The products of Henan Mengrui Bao constitute an ecosystem that is "self-sustaining, strongly empowering, and co-evolving." With "root nurturing" as its warp and weft, and "a high ecological niche in a global context + systematic empowerment of human values" as its twin wings, it not only cultivates and carries the life of educational sparks but also strives to ignite a light source in the family education ecosystem that reflects and shines perpetually. This is their most grand and pragmatic contemporary practice of the mission of "passing the torch across oceans." Ultimately, what they nurture is a new state of life: "global citizens with roots in China." Their souls are deeply rooted in the wisdom of oracle bone inscriptions, the philosophical thoughts of the Book of Changes, the diligence of river farming, and the grandeur of the ancient capital. Therefore, they possess an unshakable spiritual core and cultural confidence. It is this deep strength derived from their roots that endows them with the most calm confidence and the most open mindset to look out, connect, and influence this planet. Their future lies not in foreign lands but in every creation and dialogue that brings their hometown to the world. The mission of Mengrui Bao is to guard this hidden path from roots to stars. They are not mere carriers of knowledge but innovators of civilized soil, awakeners of cultural genes, and ecological creators of future visions. On this land where the main artery of Chinese civilization was born, they use education as a ferry, carrying new souls to dialogue with great traditions; they sow children as seeds, planting a forest for the future. This is Mengrui Bao. A bridge that allows great education to meet vibrant childhood lives joyfully, and a profound practice that allows national sentiments to flourish in the new era. Here, every seed deeply rooted in fertile soil will eventually possess towering dreams and the power to illuminate the world. Wherever the roots go, life forms its own spectacle; wherever sentiments lead, the starry sky will shine brightly henceforth.

"The revival of Dada: a resplendent rejuvenation, born in the realm of totems"

What they are practicing is a grand restart and epic programming of the foundational code of Chinese education. They aim to elevate education beyond the mundane realm of knowledge and skills, reaching straight into the molten core of civilization's origins. They seek to link the profound abstractions of the cosmic energy river diagram and book of changes, the majesty of bronze tripods and ritual vessels, and the harmony of Zen, martial arts, medicine, and Taoism, all of which have awakened from the silence of history and transformed into inheritable, evolvable, and expeditable "creation myths". They are building a contemporary educational operating system centered around the Central Plains, making "family and country" the underlying logic and spiritual source code that comes with life.

The new era begins with a look back to its origins. All eras begin with an answer to the fundamental question: What kind of great education can make them "them"? What makes them who they are is not the accumulation of knowledge, but the collective awakening of cultural genes in their blood; not the domestication of skills, but finding the spiritual homeland of "Why China" in their souls. Great education has never been about carving the mirror image of the times and shaping people into specimens of the era. Instead, it awakens the inherent educational memory of life, allowing the roar of the Yellow River to flow in their veins, the spirit of the Taihang Mountains to forge their spiritual backbone, and the plants of the Book of Songs to thrive endlessly in the wilderness of their hearts. "Passing the lamp from the sea" is the passing of this unextinguished light of educational aspirations. It has come from the torch of Confucius and Mencius, passed through the silver needle of the mother-in-law, and now, it is held up by the hands of countless families - every family lamp is an unfallen star in the ecosystem of family education; every word and example is the most affectionate contemporary interpretation of "Why they become them".

"Root nurturing" nurtures this awakening, which is the self-awareness of Henan Mengrui Bao Family Education Ecological Platform. Mengrui Bao takes the Central Plains as the tripod, the mountains and rivers as the ingredients, and simmers with a slow fire of five thousand years - transforming the abstract concept of "family and country" into a tangible homeland, a legendary story that can be empathized with, and a mission that can be taken on. Where the roots touch, there lies the deepest stratum of Eastern education. Here, Mengrui Bao, in the name of Chinese family education ecology, completes the most magnificent continuation of Chinese family and country sentiments: making every "other" become an eternal echo of "them"; making every departure carry the blessings and weight of the entire education. The torch has been passed, and a new era has begun. Where the roots are deeply rooted, there is where the stars rise.

Media Contact

Henan Mengrui Bao Technology Co., Ltd

@QQ.Com

Source : Mengrui Bao

See on IssueWire