Entrepreneurs and sales professionals can now build income through essential services including internet, TV, wireless, and smart home solutions

Chino, California Mar 21, 2026 (IssueWire.com) - Luxara Global Expands Nationwide Opportunity in Internet, TV, and Smart Home Services

Luxara Global is expanding its nationwide business opportunity, giving entrepreneurs and independent sales professionals access to a fast-growing platform built around essential home services.

Founded by former NBA player and entrepreneur Tony Farmer, Luxara Global is focused on delivering services people already rely on daily — including internet, television, wireless connectivity, and smart home solutions — while creating a pathway for individuals to build income around those services.

“We’re not asking people to sell something unfamiliar,” said Tony Farmer, CEO and Co-Founder of Luxara Global. “We’ve built a model around services that households already use every single day. That creates a real opportunity for people to earn.”

Built Around Essential Services

Luxara Global’s platform is designed for individuals seeking:

additional income streams

flexible entrepreneurship

recurring revenue potential

access to a growing services ecosystem

The platform includes services across internet, television, wireless, and smart home categories, allowing agents to offer solutions that are already in demand across households nationwide.

These offerings include services associated with major providers such as DIRECTV, AT&T, Spectrum, Frontier, and Vivint, along with Luxara’s flagship portable 5G internet solution, the Dragon Router.

Positioned for Growth

As demand for connectivity, entertainment, and smart home solutions continues to grow, Luxara Global is scaling its agent network across the United States.

Unlike traditional opportunities centered around trend-based products, Luxara focuses on essential service categories with consistent demand, giving agents the ability to build within stable and expanding markets.

A Modern Opportunity Platform

Luxara Global is building a platform designed to align with the modern economy — where services, connectivity, and recurring revenue models play a central role.

The company is actively welcoming individuals interested in learning more about the Luxara opportunity and how to get started.
